VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the Supreme Court of British Columbia Tuesday ordered lawyers to check the accuracy of statements attributed to Attorney-General Robert Bonner about a case now before the court.

The judge's order followed a complaint from Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation.

The Attorney-General was quoted Monday as saying that an order of the Supreme Court of Canada putting the provincially expropriated B.C. Electric back into receivership would have no effect because BCE no longer existed.

Oil Fire Closes Port

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — A gigantic oil fire, set by European Secret Army saboteurs, raged for the second day on Oran's waterfront Tuesday, closing the port to panicky Europeans clogging nearby roads in an effort to board ships for France.

SAFETY MEASURE
French authorities closed the port to all traffic as a safety measure as naval firemen battled the blaze in fuel oil reservoirs.

The announcement that the port would remain closed for only 48 hours partly reassured Europeans, who feared they would be unable to leave the country before the July 1 referendum which is expected to make Algeria an independent Moslem state.

RUMORS DENIED
The announcement meant the mass evacuation to France by ship would be resumed when danger was past.

Army loudspeakers crisscrossed through the streets reassuring Europeans that there was no truth to rumors—presumably spread by the Secret Army—that the French army would abandon Oran to the Moslem nationalists immediately after the self-determination referendum.

Record Heat Bakes Saskatoon

EDMONTON (CP) — The heat wave rolled eastward into Saskatchewan Tuesday, topping the previous high for the date at one centre, and equalling the record at another.

But cooler air swept into Alberta tumbling temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below the high recorded Monday.

Saskatoon sizzled at 95 above Tuesday, seven degrees hotter than the high for June 26 in 1926 and two degrees above the Monday temperature. At North Battleford, the 92 degree reading equaled the 1931 record. At Prince Albert, the mercury also soared to 95.

Poisonous Seeds Start New Summer Attack

Three local cases of laburnum seed poisoning have prompted hospital officials to warn parents to keep a close watch on their children.

The three, all youngsters under 10 years of age who had eaten seeds from laburnum trees, were successfully treated at the poison control centre of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

So far no laburnum victims have been treated at St. Joseph's Hospital but emergency staff is waiting for the usual summer onslaught.

Royal Jubilee handles 20 or more cases of laburnum poisoning each year, most during the summer.

To avoid danger laburnum victims should be treated within a half hour of swallowing the poisonous seed, although successful treatment has been administered an hour after the seed was eaten.

Symptoms of poisoning are a burning of the mouth and stomach, nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, delirium, and in serious cases, unconsciousness.

Deadlock Complete In Medicare Fight

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons' governing council said late Tuesday it cannot recommend to its members that they change plans to provide only emergency medical service after July 1.

The college council said in a press release the government should withdraw the July 1 starting date for the act setting up the province's compulsory medical care insurance program.

FLAT REJECTION
The statement appeared to be a flat rejection of proposals and concessions made by the government during a series of three days and Monday.

During the series of meetings, Premier Lloyd said the government would allow doctors to practise outside the plan if they wished. Mr. Lloyd also agreed to delete or repeal sections of the act to which the doctors objected.

SESSION REJECTED
Commenting in a telephone interview on the college's statement, Premier Lloyd said the government will not consider delaying the plan or calling a special session of the legislature to put its proposals into legislation.

He said the concessions the government had made were beyond any which could have been expected from us. The concessions were difficult to make.

The council rejected Mr.

Lloyd's proposal that a public and documentary statement on his proposals would be sufficient to allow the doctors to practise privately until the enabling act was amended next February, date of the normal legislative session.

The council said Mr. Lloyd's offer that the cabinet take responsibility to make order-in-council regulations which would circumvent the act could not be accepted.

CHANGE OR VANISH

The college said the regulations could be changed overnight by another order-in-council or disappear completely if it was challenged in the courts.

Thus the future of the profession rests on the whim of the cabinet.

"Under Mr. Lloyd's proposal the act would still control the patients and the services they would receive."

Austerity Halts Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's austerity program has forced cancellation of hearings that the royal commission on banking and finance had planned to begin here next Tuesday.

Boom Over Nevada?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. said Tuesday it is considering triggering a few low-yield nuclear devices in the air over its Nevada testing grounds.

Since the U.S. resumed testing last fall, 38 underground explosions have been set off in Nevada. Attempted blasts in space and atmosphere have been confined to the Pacific testing grounds.

If a go-ahead is given, first blast will come July 6 and all precautions would be taken to hold radiation to safe levels.

PEACEFUL USE

The tests would be part of a program designed to test the peaceful use of nuclear explosives.

The U.S. also will make a new try at a high altitude blast in the Pacific after two failures.

Britain Holds Power

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said in a major defence policy debate in Parliament Tuesday that Britain will continue to maintain its independent nuclear deterrent.

Labor leader Hugh Gaitskelt asked: "Is the British government free to use its nuclear weapons as it thinks, without consultation with or agreement with the United States?"

Macmillan replied: "The British government is free because the forces are located here. The American government is not free in respect to forces located here."

NEITHER WOULD

"Then there is, as a matter of practice, an understanding with which I had with (former) President Eisenhower and have now with President Kennedy that neither of us, in any part of the world, would think of using power of this kind without consultation with each other."

"But that does not take away the independent right of both the Americans and the British."

QUERIED BY LIBERAL

Jo Grimond, leader of the Liberals, asked: "Do you not find it extremely difficult to bring any pressure on other countries to forego arming themselves with nuclear weapons so long as we insist on maintaining this so-called independent deterrent?"

Macmillan said: "You may be right in that. France is a nuclear power and I think likely to remain one. The British government quite understands the reasons for their policy."

Sailboat Flips Man Drowns

The son of an associate editor of The Daily Colonist drowned at Parksville yesterday while trying to swim ashore from a capsized sailboat.

Dead is Richard Young, 22, of 383 Sunset, father of two small children and son of Colonist financial editor Harry W. Young.

A companion, Gordon Knox, about 21, also of Victoria, survived the ordeal by clinging to the overturned craft until rescued by Walter Gwyer, operator of the French Creek boat basin.

SHOCK, EXPOSURE

Knox was treated by a doctor for shock and exposure. Families of both men were holidaying at a cabin at Northwest Bay owned by the Young family.

The men left Northwest Bay in a 20-foot sailboat owned by Young's father. The boat capsized about 1 1/2 miles offshore from Parksville during the afternoon.

WEARING RAINCOAT

Both men held on to the hull for about one hour before Young tried to swim ashore. He was wearing all his clothing and a raincoat in addition to a lifejacket, said RCMP.

Waves were heavy and whitecaps were breaking on the water.

Shortly after Knox was picked from the water by Gwyer, the crew of the tugboat began its recovery. Young's body floating in the water and tried vain to revive him by artificial respiration.

TOOK IN TOW

A department of transport vessel, the Sir James Douglas, took the sailboat in tow.

Knox returned to the cabin at Northwest Bay where he was attended by a physician. The body of Richard Young was taken to Westwood funeral home in Nanaimo.

RECENT PROMOTION

Young was employed by the T. Eaton Co. in Victoria. He was promoted recently.

"He was a very promising young man in our company. We'll certainly miss him," said a spokesman for the firm.

Surviving are the widow, Linda; two small children; the parents and three brothers.

Today's the Last Day To Get in the Swim

Today is D-day — deadline day — for registration in the Colonist free swim classes.

After 5 p.m. today no more application forms will be accepted.

TIME NEEDED

Although classes don't start until July 3 at Elk Lake's Hamsterley Beach and July 6 at Queen Margaret's School pool in Duncan, the intervening time is needed to separate children into age groups, arrange bus schedules and line up assistant swim teachers.

APPLICATION FORM

Chief instructor Margie Naysmith reminds parents to fill in the application form printed on Page 12 and get it in to the Colonist by 5 p.m. today.

She doesn't want children to miss out on her classes just because they weren't registered in time.

As many classes as necessary to handle this year's registration will be organized with groups kept as small as possible to allow for individual instruction.

Last year 1,111 youngsters between the ages of eight and 14 registered in Colonist free swim classes.

DATES LISTED

Lists of this year's students from the Greater Victoria area will be published in the Colonist Friday and again Sunday. Duncan swim classes will be printed July 4.

If two or more youngsters would like to learn together in the same class, parents must include a written request together with the application forms.

EIGHT TRIPS

Bus tickets for eight round trips to Elk Lake will be available at the Colonist editorial offices until Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for $2.50.

Speculation Rumors Grip Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Speculation developed Tuesday that former Ontario premier Leslie Frost might figure in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cabinet reorganization.

The Frost report was only one of many as the familiar atmosphere of political speculation and rumor once more gripped Ottawa after a hiatus during the eight-week election campaign and last week's intensive planning for the government's austerity program.

His name was linked in some speculation with the federal finance portfolio, now held by Hon. Donald Fleming, on the one hand, and a former Ontario or more names.

Crisis Not New

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign exchange situation reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago, Liberal Leader Pearson said Tuesday as he reiterated his demand that Parliament meet before the end of July to deal with the problem.

The opposition leader thus directly contradicted Prime Minister Diefenbaker's statement that the present emergency began to develop early in the year. It first reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago when devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92.5 U.S. cents "became unavoidable."

Mr. Pearson said every Canadian will support whatever measures the government's duty "to put all the facts fully and frankly before the people." "This has not yet been done." Referring to the prime minister's statement that the exchange situation became threatening only in recent days, Mr. Pearson said: "In fact the present emergency began to develop early in the year. It first reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago" when devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92.5 U.S. cents "became unavoidable."

Mr. Pearson said every Canadian will support whatever measures the government's duty "to put all the facts fully and frankly before the people."

Earlier, Mr. Douglas said the measures demonstrate the need for a speedy convening of Parliament.

Nation to Help

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said Tuesday he is sure the nation will co-operate with the federal government's new financial measures.

"I am sure all Canadians will work together on this, despite their political persuasions," he said in a telephone interview from his summer home at Carlyle Lake.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas said the measures demonstrate the need for a speedy convening of Parliament.

No Sacred Split

OTTAWA (CP) — Real Caouette, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, Tuesday night denied suggestions that he and his national leader, Robert Thompson, are at odds in some of their public statements.

He said any impression that he and Mr. Thompson are at variance in their public statements "is entirely wrong." "There is only one Social Credit philosophy — and we do not have different versions."

Senator Named

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet, including its time while emergency financial measures take effect, met Tuesday for what informants described as a routine business meeting. It probably will meet again today.

The Liberal party's 99 newly-elected MPs were to gather here today for what was described as "a briefing session and exchange of views." The Social Credit party, which elected 30 members June 18, was to have a caucus of its 26 Quebec MPs in Quebec City today.

The New Democratic Party will get in the swim with a caucus in Winnipeg July 12 of its 19 members.

There appeared to be no plans in the wind for an early meeting of the 116 Conservatives elected to the 265-seat Commons.

In other replies to reporters' questions, the prime minister said:

Regier Gets Green Light To Give Douglas Seat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Burnaby-Couquillum New Democratic Party members Tuesday night voted 163-11 in favor of allowing their member of Parliament, Erhart Regier, to resign his seat to allow defeated national leader Tommy Douglas to stand for election.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Voters don't care much about big things. They care deeply about small things. Ask the man on the street what he thinks about the Columbia River, and you'll get a shrug.

Ask what he thinks about the government's 25 per cent increase in imported liquor prices and he's off like a rocket.

I've heard so many angry lectures on the price increase that I'm beginning to feel that it's my fault. Even non-drinkers seem to be in a bad temper about it.

What makes them angry is that the government was so fast on the draw. Ottawa announced an increase in tariff on imported liquor. Victoria followed, the same day, with a 25 per cent increase of its own.

This increase applies to old stocks of liquor bought at the old, low price. Therefore it's pure profit for the government. People know this, and they are grumbling.

The increase won't cause any hardship. But it smells of injustice—the kind of minor injustice that can cost a government thousands of votes.

Swamped by Thrifty?

The government might have an answer: "If we don't raise prices at once," they might say, "we'll be swamped with thrifty people trying to buy cheap liquor before the price goes up."

The government might avoid this kind of trouble by handing the retail liquor business over to private enterprise.

Government could stay in the wholesale liquor business, operate a few retail outlets as but trust the greatest volume of retailing to commercial stores.

By this method, government might dodge some of the blame that it now gets for price increases. And perhaps competition would bring prices down. Well, why not?

Gray Campbell, writer and publisher, and John Windsor, sightless author of the book Blind Date, have signed on as publicity assistants for Victoria's centennial celebrations.

They're working as a team. "I have a feeling that the pageant is at last getting off the ground," Mr. Campbell says. "There is a letter dated June 22 from Chicago booking an aisle seat for Aug. 2, and all we need is about 30,000 more bookings. The entire city, of course, should be in the cast."

Potted Palms Cleared

They're shoving back the potted palms for dancing every week night in the conservatory of the Empress Hotel, starting Friday. No cover charge, no admission charge. It sounds too good to be true. If the Tropical Gardens (the new name for the conservatory) are jammed to the doors on Saturday, the orchestra may be moved into the ballroom.

And if the crowds are too thick on weeknights, a cover charge may be imposed later. But for the time being, all it costs the customer is the price of his food and drink.

Sailing ships are still carrying cargo from Danish ports, says Sten Dideriksen, Danish-born painter who revisited his native Copenhagen a few years ago. Reason: There still are German magnetic mines from the 1939-45 war floating around the Skagerrak and Baltic Sea. Wooden sailing ships glide over them without a whisper of trouble.

Septum, Polyps Lead Nose-Plugging List

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes plugging of the nose? It affects me so much I have to breathe through my mouth. —K.D.

Such plugging can be from: 1—Crooked septum—the septum being the partition, made of cartilage, between the nostrils. It is easily bent from some injury, often sustained in childhood but not noticed until much later.

Surcharge Helps Beat Pollution

HONEY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—Pollution problems can be partly beaten by imposing surcharges on industry, the ninth Ontario Industrial Waste Conference was told Tuesday.

N. S. Bubbis, director and chief engineer of the water works and waste disposal division of Metropolitan Winnipeg, told delegates a bylaw in his area imposes a surcharge on a firm if its waste exceeds a certain strength.

The system has successfully reduced industrial waste in local rivers and brought in substantial revenue.

"Winnipeg collected $200,000 in surcharges during the first two years the bylaw was in effect," Mr. Bubbis said.

as infection, or more often, allergy. 3—Enlarged adenoids. This is more common, however, in children. 4—Chronic sinus disease. The first two are the more likely.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a person is advised to take thyroid extract "for life," can he continue to do so in all security, or should he have more tests? —K.D.

Need for thyroid extract may indeed continue for life. The patient should be checked periodically, perhaps three or four times a year, but this doesn't mean a test each time. The doctor can readily determine when one is necessary. The dosage of thyroid extract may be subject to change.

Dear Dr. Molner: When I urinate, the stream is narrow and does not have much force. I have no pain. What do you advise?—F.S.

See a urologist, and he'll look first to see whether an enlarged prostate is causing this. It often does.

Note to F.S.: Flye in 100 "positive" tests for syphilis are the results of something other than syphilis, and additional tests are then necessary. (In some cases, after adequate treatment of syphilis, the tests remain "positive" even though there is no further danger to the patient or anyone else.)

City's Air Baby Forgotten!

A 21-year-old Cornox "foundling" could be forgiven for wondering what happened to all the candy, cigarettes, woolen mufflers and magazines.

The foundling can only think that once-fond foster parents have forgotten.

The foundling is No. 409 All-Weather Fighter Squadron, once fondly and proudly referred to as 409 City of Victoria Squadron.

That's right. The city's own baby. Born June 17, 1941, with battle honors stretching through three years of night defence work over Great Britain.

City of Victoria Squadron, destroyed 67 enemy aircraft, racked up seven probables, damaged 24 and knocked off 12 flying bombs and 10 locomotives and vehicles.

Its personnel won one Distinguished Service Order, one Bar to the Distinguished Flying Cross, 13 DFCs and 14 other "gongs."

It was only a week ago when Victoria centennial pageant

Honored Squadron Snubbed in Pageant

planners announced the army and navy would each have scenes in the upcoming show to depict their part in Victoria's history. No air force was mentioned.

"It doesn't seem to have had any air force in its past," it was said.

One brave soul at the planning committee raised his voice to protest. Victoria played host to the embryo fliers of the Commonwealth training plan, he said.

Patricia Bay was one of the major air force installations in the RCAF's wartime setup.

Delving deeper, the Colonist came up with Victoria's foundling—living right on the island, only 140 miles from home.

Additional information for pageant planners as to air force roots in this city—Patricia Bay was chosen as an air base site in 1938 for both land and sea planes.

In May, 1940, the first operational unit, No. 111 Coastal Artillery Co-operation Squadron, arrived at the base.

Until the end of the war.

10 more squadrons operated from Pat Bay.

They flew such aircraft as Fairey Battles, Lysanders, Sharks, Canos, Kittyhawks and Mosquitos.

Pat Bay was also the home of No. 1 School of Flying Control, the Royal Air Force's No. 32 Operational Training Unit and the RCAF's No. 13 Officers' Training Unit.

Victoria itself was headquarters for Western Air Command from November, 1939, to February, 1943, functioning as both a command and operational base.

No air force past indeed!

Ferry Subsidies Coming to B.C. 'Without Delay'

Federal subsidies promised for B.C. government ferries built after May, 1961, will be paid when the federal maritime commission receives information necessary to process the applications.

The Progressive-Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich, George Chatterton, said last night the government had requested certain cost figures from the builders and had promised to process the applications without delay as received.

BENNETT COMMENT

He was replying to a comment by Premier Bennett who said nothing had yet been paid under the subsidy agreement.

In a statement yesterday the premier said External Affairs Minister Green and Mr. Chatterton should explain their election-campaign statements now.

STILL A FACT

Mr. Bennett said his own election-campaign claim that "the federal government has not paid a single cent to date of subsidy on the government ferries" is still a fact.

He quoted Mr. Green and Mr. Chatterton as having implied the subsidy was paid directly to shipbuilding firms, not to the B.C. government.

CHECK MADE

"On checking with Burrard Dry Dock and Victoria Machinery depot," Mr. Bennett said, "we find they have not received any money for the government ferries. Burrard Dry Dock stated they had received some money for other work but not for provincial government ferries."

The federal government has offered a 40 per cent subsidy on vessels built in Canadian shipyards, using the scheme to bolster the shipbuilding industry in Canada.

Icebreaker Sails Wednesday

All done up with a brand new coat of paint and completely refitted, the three-year-old government icebreaker Cammell will sail for the Arctic at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

During her three-month, 10,000-mile tour of duty the vessel will break open channels in the ice for ships taking supplies into DEW line and RCMP stations and act as a base for marine map makers and an ice observer.

The ship will also carry along 40 marker buoys to be dropped along her route as aids to navigation.

Cammell will return to Victoria late in September or early October.

Congress Fumes at Prayer Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—Amidst an avalanche of bitter criticism of the United States Supreme Court, members of Congress proposed Tuesday that the U.S. constitution be changed to knock down the tribunal's ban on prayers in public schools.

First to introduce a constitutional amendment to permit school-room praying was Representative Roy A. Taylor (Dem., N.C.), a Baptist deacon who lists evangelist Billy Graham among his constituents. A short time later a similar measure was introduced in the Senate by Senators John Stennis (Dem., Miss.) and A. Willis Robertson (Dem., Va.).

Representative Frank Chelf (Rep., Ky.) said he is sounding out members of the House of Representatives judiciary committee about such a constitutional change and the few members he has talked to "are pretty burned up" about the court's ruling. But doubts that a constitutional amendment would get far were expressed by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. He told reporters:

"The proposition of separation of church and state is so ingrained into our people that I doubt that such an amendment would be adopted. Perhaps there can be some voluntary agreement worked out locally by which prayers could be permitted in the schools." For a constitutional amendment to become law, it must win two-thirds approval of both the House and Senate and ratification by the state legislatures of three-fourths of the states. The process usually requires years.

Much of this criticism of Monday's 6-to-1 Supreme Court decision centred on fears about how far-reaching it might be eventually.

Defensive Move?

Red China Aims Greatest Force At Tiny Quemoy

QUEMOY (AP)—Communist China is said to have poured six to eight new infantry divisions and 120 more high-speed jet fighters into an area opposite this tiny Nationalist Chinese fortress five miles from the main-

A top Nationalist commander, who reported that Tuesday, said Red China now has 18 to 20 infantry divisions, more than 300 fighter planes and at least 800 artillery pieces massed in the area.

800,000 SHELLS

It is a considerably heavier massing of Communist military power than existed before the 1958 crisis, when the Reds pounded Quemoy with 500,000 high-explosive artillery shells in a six-week bombardment.

However, Western military sources believe the buildup is a defensive manoeuvre — the Red Chinese fearing a Nationalist China might go through with its repeated threats to regain the mainland.

HEAD PLANNED INVASION

Military experts here say the 1958 bombardment was designed to soften up the Quemoy defences preparatory to a Red invasion attempt. It failed mainly because, even then, the bulk of the Quemoy defences were carved out of solid rock. Today this island of 45,000 is in far better position to withstand an artillery attack and repulse a Red invasion attempt than four years ago.

STORAGE AREAS

Headquarters and command posts are imbedded in granite tunnels many feet below the surface. Hundreds of underground storage areas are piled high with food, weapons and ammunition.

Miles of tunnels carved out of solid rock contain living areas for many of the island's estimated 70,000 defenders.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic sources said Tuesday the United States has warned Communist China that the U.S. is pledged to defend Nationalist China in the event of a Communist attack.

The warning was delivered Saturday at a meeting in Warsaw between U.S. Ambassador John Moore Cabot and Communist Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan. It was understood that Wang reminded Cabot of Red China's military alliance with the Soviet Union.

Tshombe Still Hopeful

Unity Talks Broken Off Congo Blames Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (Reuters) — National Premier Adoula said Tuesday that all peaceful means for integrating secessionist Katanga province into The Congo "appear to be exhausted."

He said his talks with Katangan President Moise Tshombe aimed at ending the secession have broken off without any date set for resumption. Adoula said it is his impression that Tshombe is determined to maintain Katanga's secession.

Tshombe was greeted by a crowd of nearly 10,000 Katangans as he arrived back in his capital of Elisabethville.

"I have signed nothing," he told the crowd, emphasizing that the four commissions he agreed to set up to prepare for the re-integration of Katanga were temporary and consultative—not executive or definitive.

The four commissions are monetary, fiscal, and transport and communications.

Speaking at a press conference in Leopoldville a few hours after Tshombe flew to his capital, Adoula said he is always ready to resume the talks—"we will talk to the devil himself if he is of good will."

NOT REPLIED Adoula added that he still is willing to take members of Tshombe's party into the new cabinet he will announce July 1 but said Tshombe has not replied to his offer "though I offered him one important post in economic and financial affairs."

Tshombe had demanded, Adoula said, that Katanga's independence be recognized and that the central government promise not to interfere in Katanga's internal affairs.

U.S. Nuclear Policy May 'Strip' RCAF

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — In light of recent United States defence policy statements, some doubt has arisen here whether the RCAF air division in Europe will assume the nuclear role for which it is being equipped.

Officials stressed Tuesday that no final decision or agreements have been reached on the issue of the supply of American nuclear warheads to Canadian and other NATO forces in Europe.

They said recent U.S. emphasis has been on tighter American control of nuclear weapons.

Eight squadrons of the RCAF air division in Europe will be re-equipped next year with the CF-104 strike reconnaissance jet plane, designed specifically as a carrier of a nuclear bomb.

U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied commander in Europe, proposed this nuclear strike role for the air division and the Canadian government accepted three years ago. The eight squadrons will get 200 C-104s while the remaining four will keep their CF-100 night fighters.

In a major policy statement at Ann Arbor, Mich., earlier this month, U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said independent national nuclear forces are "dangerous, expensive, prone to obsolescence and lacking in credibility as a deterrent."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly float disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Advrt.

Liquor Sale Hit Open Verdict Returned

VANCOUVER (CP) — A coroner's jury Tuesday returned an open verdict in the April 7 death of 16-year-old Dorothy Bentley and recommended police action to stamp out all sources of making liquor available to juveniles.

Miss Bentley's body was found floating in the water off Lasqueti Island in Georgia Strait June 20. She was last seen alive April 7 by a friend, Raymond Crause, 21, near Ladner.

Shella K. Yausle told the inquest jury that she, Dorothy and another friend told their parents they were going to a pyjama party. Instead they met three boys in New Westminster and parked, drinking wine, beer and gin.

Crause said he and Dorothy Bentley drove to the riverside at Ladner and drank some more. He fell asleep and awoke to see Dorothy's body in the river. He tried to retrieve it but it sank and he panicked and fled.

Finance Firms Rapped

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — County Court Judge Bruce Fraser Monday rapped finance companies for trying to hide behind the law.

The case concerned purchase of a vacuum cleaner for $248, which was apparently worth $70.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wilson, then living at Hope, bought the machine two years ago from a door-to-door salesman for $248, plus interest.

DUNNING LETTER

The next day they decided against buying it and returned it. But within a month of the first payment being due they received a dunning letter from the finance company.

They wrote back and explained. Rand Investments replied they had nothing to do with the Wilsons' deal with the sales company and that the payments must be made.

The Wilsons refused and Rand sued.

WRONG USE

Judge Fraser said the Bills of Exchange Act, on which the action was based, is being used for purposes never intended.

He said in this case the sales agency wound up with the cleaner and the $247 paid by the finance company for the contract.

Facing the Challenge

THE PRIME MINISTER has asked all Canadians to give their support to the measures the government has taken to stabilize the dollar and take steps towards balancing the national budget. The election is over, and politics should be forgotten until the challenge has been met, as it assuredly will be.

The "austerity" measures put forward as a means to halting the foreign run on our dollar are probably no pleasant, but they demand little more than that Canadians should do without some imported luxuries and should spend a little less money when they go abroad.

It is a great opportunity for those who advocate the policy of buying Canadian, and even if the new tariffs are only likely to be of a temporary nature, they may go a long way to setting a desirable pattern. Today, unfortunately, too many people condemn an article not on its merit, but just because it happens to be Canadian-made. This is a great mistake because Canadian goods have won a healthy respect the world over for their quality.

The fixing of the bank rediscount rate at 6 per cent, and various borrowing from the IMF, the U.S. and Great Britain are fiscal matters which will help restore confidence in the Canadian dollar, and they too are steps which are temporary in character.

It should be noted that the present restrictions are mild in comparison with those which had to be taken by the Mackenzie King government in 1947 when an imbalance of international payments caused Canada to clamp restrictions on movement of dollars out of the country and to put quotas on many imports.

Mr. Diefenbaker is not forcing Canadians to cut their travel or their spending abroad. He is merely restricting the amount they may bring back into the country without paying customs, and the 5 to 15 per cent tariff on certain goods is much less compulsive and regulative than the imposition of quotas with all their bookkeeping and flinching.

It is also worthy of note that Britain last July had to adopt similar measures when it came face to face with its economic crisis—and just as suddenly as Canada has done with its run on the dollar.

Only two months before the British crisis, government spokesmen including Prime Minister Macmillan were saying that "Britons never had it so good."

This would appear to substantiate Mr. Diefenbaker's argument that the crisis in Canada rose quickly and was not one which demanded attention "months ago" as some of his political opponents would like people to believe.

Nor is Canada's present situation so greatly different from the U.S. one of 1960-61 when that country suffered a run on its gold reserves and saw them topple to a level well below the country's commitments if full liquidation had to be faced.

It will be remembered that then the United States as a remedy reduced the amount of tax-free money Americans might spend overseas for import of goods from $500 to $100, and also received an advance payment of debt of $100,000,000 from Western Germany to tide it over the crisis.

Also for a short period the U.S. brought home the wives and families of armed forces personnel serving overseas as an additional method of cutting down external payments.

The situation facing Canada today is not one whit less or more serious than those crises which have affected Britain, the United States and other western countries in recent years.

The people of Canada will accept the remedies offered them by the prime minister, and even if they grumble at having to change their drinking habits from Scotch to rye or from rum to home-made gin, or their automobile fancies from European cars to those built in Canada, they may be thankful that these are the limits to which their fortitude is being tested.

Once Upon a Time...

OLD WORLD MYTHOLOGY is crammed full of two-headed giants, three-headed dogs and a generous selection of other many-headed beasts ranging from Medusa's Gorgons to the Lernean hydra—all of whom were ready at a moment's notice to play havoc with the countryside and only too willing to pounce on the unsuspecting passer-by.

However, since the passing of the ancient Greeks, the Roman Empire and the Viking invasions, little has been heard of them—except through the courtesy of Hans Christian Andersen, Walt Disney and the occasional academician.

It thus comes as something of a surprise to find that just such a creature has appeared on our Canadian political scene—complete with three heads.

The interesting thing about this product of modern mythology is that none of the heads have been able to agree since the night of June 18.

On that dark and stormy night the head in British Columbia said that the prime minister must call an immediate session of Parliament. But the other two heads—one in Alberta and one in Quebec—disagreed.

Later—just to keep things in balance—the head in Alberta said that for the good of Canada its body would support the prime minister and would not force another election this year. But this time the Quebec head, which is the largest, disagreed. It said that the government wouldn't last for more than two or three months at the most.

Later still—this week, in fact—the heads are at it again. They are now busy disagreeing over the prime minister's austerity program. The Alberta head says it hopes the government's decisions are sufficient to meet the crisis. But the Quebec head says that they are too sufficient already and that the prime minister must resign. The B.C. head wasn't available for comment.

However, for Canadians the outlook is heartening.

It is a matter of record that it took the old Greek heroes some time to discover that the best way to handle such a situation was to get the heads biting each other—thus keeping them so occupied that they had no time for wider interests.

Our new monster, on the other hand, seems determined to follow this ancient procedure for self-destruction without any outside persuasion at all. And this saves us all a lot of trouble.

U.S. Foreign Aid

The Stakes Too Are High

By KIP COOPER
(Second of Five Articles)

CAN the United States afford its foreign aid program? Proponents argue that while the cost is high, so are the stakes.

They point out that the $4.7 billion proposed for all foreign aid programs this year is less than two-thirds of what Americans spend on tobacco and about half of the expenditure for whisky. In 1945, they add, the United States spent $80 billion for defence in a single year.

The foreign aid program, despite heavy criticism, has been supported by every president since 1949, every cabinet and every military chief.

"Apart from its boost to the economy of one developed nation," the defence official said, "our aid actually saves the United States millions of dollars."

"It costs $4,000 to maintain one U.S. soldier overseas. However it cost only $100 in U.S. aid to maintain a Chinese soldier, $250 for a Korean, $400 for a Thai, $650 for a Vietnamese, $390 for a Turkish soldier and $375 for a Greek."

For an investment of $10,000, the official noted, the U.S. could maintain under arms either 2½ Americans, 61 Chinese, 43 Koreans, 25 Thai, 11 Vietnamese, 26 Turks or 27 Greeks.

"It also should be remembered," he said, "that their homelands are the front line of the Free World—not the U.S."

U.S. allies also carry part of the Free World defence burden. From 1950 to 1960, Europe's North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations contributed $123.2 billion to defence. Direct U.S. aid to NATO during that same period was $15.3 billion, although eventually all U.S. defence spending helps strengthen the alliance. Some of the alliance nations were rebuilt with U.S. aid.

But the U.S. congress, backed by growing public sentiment, is challenging aid to Communist countries and neutrals who oppose U.S. policies.

In voting June 6 to cut off aid to any country dominated by Communist or Marxist governments, Congress took up the cudgel wielded by thousands of irate San Diego, Calif., citizens last fall, said one observer.

Last year San Diego protested in rallies and telegrams to congressional leaders the sale of military equipment to Yugoslavia. "The goods, including jet planes, were shipped from San Diego," San Diego citizens challenged State Department thinking which made "an agrarian reformer out of Mao Tse-tung, a social reformer of Castro and now says Tito (premier of Yugoslavia) will fight the Russians."

"Here is what Tito has done," they said. "He refused the U.S. permission to inspect use of the $2.9 billion dollars we gave him; called the Hungarian freedom fighters 'bandits'; criticized the U.S. for 'causing' Russia to have to resume nuclear testing and denounced U.S. intervention in Cuba."

The protests spread through out the country.

Congress also has voted a 23 per cent cut in aid funds to India, a neutral often critical of U.S. policy. Sen. Stuart Symington sponsored a bill to strike all aid to India.

"Our aid to them is for building their economy, not their military machines," Symington said, referring to India's seizure of Goa from the Portuguese, her actions in Kashmir, and recent bid to buy Soviet built warplanes.

"One-seventh of our foreign aid goes to India," Senator Symington said, "which spends 20 per cent of its budget on military forces."

Some congressmen have worked to restore or soften the cutoff of aid to Yugoslavia and Poland. They propose cutting off military aid but retaining economic aid which permits shipment of surplus food.

Other congressmen argue that this is not the time to cut aid to India, which is standing up to Communist China in a territory dispute.

Many defence and state department officials have said that if the United States does not give the neutrals and the "independent" Communist countries a chance to oppose Russia, they will have to turn to the Reds for aid.

Coffee-Tree Eradication

CRITICS FEARFUL

By COPELY NEWS SERVICE

HALF a century ago, Brazil supplied nine-tenths of the world's rubber and earned a then astronomical $125 million a year for it.

But Brazil's rubber bonanza burst after a British scientist smuggled out seeds of the rubber tree and trees grown from them proved more bountiful in the East Indies. Now Brazil has to import rubber.

The country survived, of course, and this bit of boom-and-bust economic history might rarely be called to mind, were it not for some thoughtful Brazilians who are wondering whether their country is getting into similar hot water with coffee.

Brazil is now seeking a $90 million loan from the United States to finance a government plan to destroy one billion coffee trees over the next three years.

Critics of this coffee eradication program fear it could encourage heavier planting of coffee in Africa and intensify African competition for world coffee markets.

Report From Ottawa

Sound of Distant Thunder

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

THE NATION'S capital awaits with an impatient curiosity that is ill-concealed, its first glimpse of Mr. René Caouette's strange Quebec band of 26 Social Credit fundamentalists.

There is some reason to believe that this curiosity is shared by the four Socialists who were elected in the western provinces and who may well find that they have little more in common with many of their new colleagues than they have with the Conservatives, Liberals or New Democrats.

Mr. Caouette himself, Ottawa has seen before. He is remembered, though not too well remembered, as a rather fervent young man who entered the House of Commons after he had scored a victory which few had foreseen or expected in a federal by-election held in the riding of Pontiac on Sept. 16, 1946.

At the time, he was using the Union des Electeurs label which he has since discarded.

Mr. Caouette, whose interest in Social Credit dates back to 1939 when he chanced to read a book on the subject written by the controversial founding father of Social Credit, Major C. H. Douglas, did not show to best advantage during his first parliamentary term.

As his hometown nickname "Thunder" would suggest, he proved to be a good speaker. He lacked confidence and poise, scarcely unusual in a first-term parliamentarian. At times, he displayed a fire and conviction which made an impression on those who heard him.

But from the time of his election until his defeat in the general election of 1949, he attracted much less attention than might have been expected. In part at least, this may be attributable to the fact that his ill-defined role in Parliament was not likely to encourage prominence. As the first and only Union des Electeurs MP to be elected to the House of Commons, he was associated with the Social Credit group without, however, ever quite becoming an integral part of it.

The western Socialists welcomed the youthful Mr. Caouette, naturally enough, as giving them, for the first time, a spokesman in French Canada. But there were communication problems which were a matter of outlook and ideas rather than language.

Then, too, the Union des Electeurs, to which Mr. Caouette gave special representation in the House of Commons, fell under suspicion as a group of right-wing extremists. The orthodox Socialists from the west, never altogether free of suspicion on the same grounds themselves, found it desirable to keep the Union des Electeurs at arm's length.

This wasn't applicable to Mr. Caouette himself. But it can scarcely have served to improve the relations between him and the group.

The last election campaign has served notice on the Conservatives and Liberals alike that the leader of the new 26-member Quebec Social Credit group isn't to be confused with the Mr. René Caouette (U.E.—Pontiac) who was here for some three years.

Still only 41 years of age, he has acquired a good deal of experience, political insight and debating skill since the day in 1949 when he left the parliament buildings, apparently for good.

Reports from Quebec agree that the forceful, energetic, ambitious Mr. Caouette is one of the fiercest orators Quebec has produced since the incomparable Henri Bourassa. Veteran parliamentarians are withholding judgment on that proposition until they get another look at him.

Parliament applies unique tests of its own.

Some of the finest stump orators ever produced in Canada, Britain or other parliamentary democracies have never lived up to expectation.

once they were inside the House of Commons. Most of them could never explain why, except to say that a House of Commons audience and atmosphere was quite unlike any other.

Mr. Caouette, however, has an advantage in this respect. He has already served his apprenticeship in the Commons. And if he wasn't the passionate and persuasive orator in 1946-49 that he has been on the hustings in 1962, he may well have shown even at that time, that he had the makings of one.

However that may be, Mr. Caouette has already served notice that Parliament is in for some stirring times, once his Quebec Socialists reach Ottawa.

He has intimated that his followers will subject parliamentary rules and forces to severe strain.

"You just watch our boys," he is quoted as having said jubilantly on election night, "they'll be thrown out of the House of Commons more than anyone else."

This is a feat which Mr. Caouette himself failed to achieve during his visit. But he comes this time under different circumstances and with more formidable talents. And at a moment when, with the defeat of the Hon. D. R. Michener in Toronto-St. Paul's, Parliament won't even have an experienced Speaker in the chair to meet the emergency.

A NEIGHBOR of mine who owns a small summer cabin on one of the resort lakes was asked by an acquaintance of his if he would rent the cabin for a couple of weeks early in May. Since the accommodation included all furniture and bedding as well as a boat and outboard engine, the price was agreed at $100.

All May and most of June went by without the rent being paid. My neighbor telephoned a couple of times, and the tenant, who said he had had a lovely holiday, assured him that the cheque would be along in a day or two.

The cheque came the next day.

Tough-Mindedness

Road to Success

From The Telegram, Toronto

WOULDN'T it be lovely if there were some easy way of preparing for final examinations in high school?

In fanciful moments students have imagined having knowledge pass to them by osmosis or some other painless process. When conditions change, refusal to whimper when the going gets difficult; absence of self-pity; commitment to the arduous and heroic work; capacity to master whatever skills are required for the particular job in hand; insistence on unsparring reasoning and critical intelligence.

That seems like a tall order, but it is the only road to learning. The belief that high hurdles can be magically over-passed is a fantasy.

Newspapers

A Modern Staple

NEWSPAPERS are regarded as an essential of modern daily life—as much a staple as milk and bread.

A recent survey showed, in fact, that more copies of U.S. daily newspapers are sold each day than bottles of milk or loaves of bread.

The world has about 30,000 newspapers, including 8,000 dailies, with a total circulation of more than 250 million copies, the National Geographic Society says.

At one time, however, only three "newspapers" existed, and they were merely handwritten daily notices posted in public places in ancient Rome. The Acta Diurna, Acta Senatus, and Acta Publica gave official news of the late Roman Republic and early Empire.

The first Chinese newspaper was a court gazette founded in the Tang Dynasty (AD 618-907). It survived until the 1830s, spanning the ages from handwriting to printing from blocks and then movable metal type.

The introduction of printing from movable type in the mid-15th century spurred the development of newspapers in Europe. News sheets were issued irregularly in Nuremberg, Augsburg, and Cologne early in the 16th century. A monthly printed news paper, Notizie Scritte, appeared in Venice in 1562 as an expansion of the old daily notices. The Venetian paper sold for one small coin, a gazetta, a word that soon became a synonym for newspaper.

Historic events casually pop from the columns of early newspapers. The Strasbourg Relation of September 4, 1609, reported that Signor Galileo, professor of mathematics at Padua, was building a new telescope.

The first English newspapers were restricted to foreign news. James I, forbidding publication of national news, called it "lavish and licentious talking in matters of state"—which the common people know not how to understand.

Seventeenth-century authorities did not look kindly upon newspapers. The Allgemeine Zeitung appeared consecutively in Leipzig, Tübingen, Stuttgart, Ulm, and Augsburg in its efforts to keep one jump ahead of the censor.

The first newspaper published in colonial America also ran into censorship problems. On September 25, 1690, Benjamin Harris issued in Boston his Publick Occurrences Both Foreign and Domestick to be "furnished once a month (or if any Glut of Occurrences happen, oftener)." Four days later the governor banned the first and only number because it contained "reflections of a very high nature" and "sundry doubtful and uncertain reports."

The first continuously published American newspaper was the Boston News-Letter, started by John Campbell in 1764. In that day of personal journalism, Campbell could write of the rival, "itty bits" of the new paper: its sheets smell stronger of beer than midnight oil. It is not reading fit for people."

The Tory News-Letter expired in 1776.

Colonial taverns kept newspapers on hand. They served as aids to literacy. One innkeeper was obliged to post this sign: "Gentlemen learning to spell are requested to use last week's newsletter."

For more than three centuries newspapers were laboriously turned out in small numbers on hand presses. In 1814 the London Times installed the first steam-powered printing press. It ushered in a mechanical revolution that made possible the mass circulation of present dailies.

American aircraft attending an international fly-in July 7 and 8 will be able to fly directly to Tofino Airport, instead of having to land at Victoria or Vancouver first in order to clear customs and immigration.

Of these, 150 aircraft will be from the United States.

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 200 words in length and, if signed with a pen-name, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

The U.S. excuse for resuming tests was that they were necessary "because the Russians may have gained advantages in their tests last fall."

But the press also reports that Russian scientific boats are right in the test area making observations. In view of this fact any new information gained by the U.S. is also available to the Russians.

Therefore the U.S. government's excuses for the resumption of tests is no longer valid. Indeed, the whole operation is a gigantic hoax perpetrated upon mankind at the expense of our health and at the risk of contaminating outer space.

governments supported the U.S. resumption of tests, agreeing with the argument that "the Russians might have gained an advantage in their tests last fall."

With Russia observing the tests, no advantage can be gained by the U.S. and the argument for Canadian support of this renewal is removed. Therefore the Canadian government should withdraw its support for the test program.

Teaching Profession 'Lagging Seriously'

By PETER BRUTON

The teaching profession has "lagged very seriously" in failing to change its methods of instruction over the years, city school principal Bernard Gillie said yesterday.

"If any other profession—law, medicine, architecture or dentistry—were to endeavor to operate on the same basic procedures used 35 years ago they would simply be laughed out of business," he told Victoria Kiwanis Club.

The failure of the teaching profession to change with the times was termed "the greatest single failure in the whole process of public education."

Mr. Gillie, soon to take up the post of superintendent of schools in the Northwest Territories, was speaking on the changes he has seen in education during the last 35 years.

"We in the teaching profession have failed to take advantage of new methods," declared Mr. Gillie.

He laid the blame on the teachers themselves and those in charge of directing Canada's educational system.

Mr. Gillie said teachers had

BERNARD GILLIE
"Greatest single failure"

unfortunately tended to relax into following old procedures year after year instead of sitting down and working out new methods of instruction.

But, he added, there were signs that this "professional lethargy" was being stemmed.

Teachers had the habit of sitting back and waiting to be told what to do. And those in charge of directing our educational system were loath to change.

"Our educational system will never reach the full measure of its effectiveness until the teachers say: 'This is the way it should be done.'"

Mr. Gillie said that the actual process of teaching—what teachers do in the classroom—doesn't differ very much today from 35 years ago.

"In my opinion this is very unfortunate," he said. "Almost all other aspects of education showed huge changes over the years."

"The profession of education has lagged very seriously in this the most important aspect of all," he said.

"I look with suspicion on any system where the process has changed very little and when everything around it has changed very much," continued Mr. Gillie.

He said that because there has been so many changes "it is rather futile for us to compare the young people of today with the young people of 35 years ago."

"They may be better... they may be worse," he said. "Arguments can be made for both sides. But only one thing is sure. They are very different because they come from very different environments."

Mr. Gillie said 35 years ago a high school education was the exception rather than the rule and a university education very rare.

Today it was almost impossible to get a job without at least a high school education.

Other changes included the tremendous number of students who now seek secondary school educations and the attitude of students towards their teachers.

"There has been a tremendous improvement in the human side of education," he said. "Students and teachers have been brought much closer together in their personal relationships, in their understanding of each other."

"This makes teaching in some respects easier, in other respects more difficult," declared Mr. Gillie.

All Escape Injury Two Ride Over Cliff Third Leaps to Safety

A passenger who jumped clear of a car as it plunged down a 90-foot embankment fully expected to see his two chums "spread all over" when the car landed.

"I guess I partly jumped and was partly thrown out," said Donald Boyd, 20, of 2213 Windsor, speaking of a Monday night accident in which a car driven by David James Thompson, 630 Sedge, blew a tire on the Malahat a short distance north of the summit and hurtled 90 feet down a sheer cliff.

The driver and passenger, Gordon McKenzie of Harris Creek, rode the car to the bottom and emerged unhurt.

Mr. Boyd, the only man injured, was treated for a shoulder abrasion at St. Joseph's Hospital.

It took a Victoria wrecker 90 minutes to haul the scarcely recognizable mass of metal from the bottom of the cliff.

Marriage 'By Rules' Harmful, Says Priest

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — A "rules and regulations marriage" in which there is no love cannot be as successful as a union based on love, a Roman Catholic professor says.

Rev. Michael Farson, professor of theology at St. Michael's College, Santa Fe, N.M., said that sex is "a part of marriage."

"Sex without love in marriage, although morally all right, can be psychologically harmful," he said, "just as sex with love outside of marriage can be psychologically all right but morally wrong."

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — The unofficial magazine of the Episcopal church criticizes as a "misguided, do-it-yourself attitude" the belief of astronaut Scott Carpenter and his wife that it is "presumptuous" to pray for one's self.

An editorial in the June 24 issue of The Living Church says there was danger in the attempt to make all of life another do-it-yourself project.

COPPINGS, England — The Duchess of Kent yesterday gave birth to a son who is 10th in the line of succession to the British throne, at her home here near London.

NE YORK — Hailed as a heroine recently when she talked Charles Bowes, 29, out of jumping from a hotel roof, Tiede Wheeler, 23, unemployed dancer-model, landed in jail next day for failing to pay for two dresses worth $60 she'd picked out in a department store.

NEW YORK — The wife of runaway financier Edward M. Gilbert is under court order forbidding her to dispose of $867,784 in art objects and furnishings in her Fifth Avenue apartment.

SOMERVILLE, Mass. — Twelve-year-old Everett

Knowles Jr., who spent the last weeks of school in a hospital where his severed arm was re-implanted, has been promoted to the eighth grade.

The boy's mother said Everett's grades were good enough to earn him the promotion even though he was unable to attend school after a freight train tore off his right arm last month.

LONDON — Comedian Charlie Chaplin, 72, the father of nine children, said Tuesday the approach of the birth of his 10th child is not causing him as much concern as the others. Chaplin said: "I must admit in all modesty I am getting used to it."

TANGIER — Omar Pound, son of U.S. poet Ezra Pound, has been named principal of the American School of Tangier. Pound obtained his master's degree at McGill University, Montreal.

CHICAGO — A prominent medical columnist has advised American women to select healthy mates who are lean, sensible, even-tempered, inclined to moderation and had long-lived ancestors. Dr. Theodore E. # Billie Beats Best WIMBLEDON, England (CP) — Billie Jean Moffitt, a bubbling 18-year-old American with a tennis style to match, scored one of the biggest upsets in the history of the all-England championships Tuesday by ousting the No. 1 women's seed, Margaret Smith of Australia, 1-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Never before had a top-seeded player been knocked out of the women's singles in the opening day. And this is the 76th Wimbledon tournament, generally recognized as the unofficial world championships.

FROM FIRE
Little Miss Moffitt, standing only five feet, six inches, pulled her centre court victory from the fire after being two points away from defeat on her own serve in the second set.

Miss Smith, who packs a powerhouse game to match her five-foot-10 size, was the only one of eight seeded women players to lose. Recent winner of the French and Italian titles, she was a heavy favorite to win the Wimbledon crown.

BIGGEST UPSET EVER
Miss Moffitt scored her match point with a perfect backhand to earn the biggest upset win since the women's singles were first played at Wimbledon in 1884.

Angela Mortimer of England, the defending champion seeded only sixth this year due to a leg injury, defeated Marjorie Grace of England 6-0, 6-2.

EASY ROAD
Second-seeded Darlene Hard of the United States had an easy road in the second round with a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Mrs. D. K. Illingworth of Britain.

Third-seeded Mario Bueno of Brazil, Wimbledon champion in 1959 and 1960, defeated Margaret Varner of the United States 6-3, 6-4. Fourth-seeded Renee Schuurman of South Africa beat Miss F. V. MacLennan of Britain 6-0, 6-4.

Ann Haydon of Britain, seeded fifth, defeated Miss S. L. Lazzarino of Italy 6-2, 6-2. Seventh-seeded Leslie Turner of Australia eliminated Mrs. A. R. Mills of Britain 6-4, 6-1. Eighth-seeded Karen Hanzer, a woman of the United States breeze past Miss A. M. Estallola of Spain 6-2, 6-1.

MEN PLAY TOO
Tuesday's program also included first matches in men's doubles and completion of some men's singles battles halted by darkness Monday.

In the doubles Australia's Roy Emerson and Neal Fraser defeated Detlef Herby and Laci Legenstein of Austria 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. John Fraser and Rod Laver of Australia eliminated Drew McMillan and A. F. Rastown of South Africa 6-2, 8-6, 4-6, 6-3.

The American duo of Chuck McKinley and Denis Ralston, seeded fourth behind three Australian combinations, whipped Manuel Cuadros and Juan Gisbert of Spain 6-2, 6-4, 6-2.

In the men's singles, Orlando Sirola of Italy took five sets to oust Boris Jovanovic of Yugoslavia 10-8, 5-7, 2-6, 7-3, 6-4.

Leaped Before Looked

BACKENACK, N.J. (AP) — Anthony Lieberman of Philadelphia leaped before he looked and was promptly eliminated from the Eastern clay tennis championships Monday.

Lieberman, 24, hit a hard cross-court volley at match point and thinking he had won, hurled the net to shake his opponent's head.

But the "loser," Sidney Schwartz of Brooklyn, N.Y., lunged for the ball, got his racket on it and sent back a lob.

Lieberman, on the wrong side of the net, watched helplessly as the ball sailed over his head and landed in the court.

Schwartz then ran out the match 6-1, 6-4, 9-7.

OUTDOORS
with Alec Merriman

At this time of the year the best time to fish small-mouthed bass is from half an hour before sunset, through the dusk period for the first full hour after dark, but on some nights they bite right through until after dawn.

That is the advice two-time King Fisherman contest bass division winner Jack Seedhouse gave to fish and game club members this week.

"Be patient, but also be erratic when you retrieve your lures," he said.

Seedhouse uses a rather stiff five-foot solid glass casting rod and bait casting reel, but acknowledges that spinning outfits work equally as well. "When using light test leaders you need something quite solid in order to set the hook," he explained. "The mouth of a bass is very tough, you must really set the hook."

He finds night-time fishing "the most interesting... the most electrifying... It can drive you out of your head. You can get 30 to 40 strikes and still come back skunked."

He likes a floating plug or a surface lure at night and enjoys hearing them hit the water when everything else is quiet.

"After the plug hits the water, wait. You can wait 30 seconds or a minute, during which time maybe a fish will hit. Eighty per cent of the bass are caught right after the cast, or during the initial five feet of retrieve," he said.

"At night you can't see anything, so you go by sound. As soon as you hear a splash, try to set the hook. It is a good thing to have the rod tip pointed almost level with the water, then you can reel it right back and set the hooks," he said.

Seedhouse doesn't like a moonlit night for fishing. A night with a full moon is virtually unproductive, he believes, and said only hope on those nights is to use a spoon, or something that flashes.

Seedhouse is a plug fisherman and his own collection of plugs numbers more than 300. He believes in changing lures frequently and sometimes uses up to 20 different plugs in a night.

He uses an eight-pound test monofilament leader. Earliest date he has caught bass on artificial lures was March 1 on Prospect Lake. He has found that from then until the end of April, deep running plugs are the most effective.

He has found floating and diving plugs (which don't go more than three or four feet under the surface) most effective in May and early June, when the male guards the nests until the eggs hatch.

He said it can be very effective to seek out the nests on the spawning grounds and fish with a worm, but warned that fishing this way is a bad conservation practice and results in killing off the future supply of fish.

He said the male fish, when guarding a nest, will pick up a worm, take it away and drop it three or four feet from the nest, because it doesn't want anything fouling up the nest. Seedhouse never uses bait.

After the middle of June the water gets quite warm and daytime fishing falls off sharply, except maybe by deep trolling.

Prospect Lake, he said, has a lot of rocky shoreline, where bass can be caught with deep runners in the daytime, or at night move in close to the shore with surface or shallow running plugs. He said the north and south ends of the island in Prospect are good bass spots and also the bay near the lily pads, at the south end of the lake. The muddy shallow bay at the north end is sometimes good just at dawn in six to eight inches of water.

"As the sun comes up, move into deeper water," he advised.

At Elk Lake, he likes to fish the deep shoreline on the western side of the lake and two-thirds of the way south, along the western shoreline, are some rocks where there is often good fishing.

Beaver Lake, he said, used to be a hot bass lake, but has now become so overgrown with aquatic weeds that he doesn't bother to fish there now. He has caught them up to 7-12 pounds from Beaver and seen them up to 8-1 pounds.

He said St. Mary Lake on Salt Spring Island is an excellent bass fishing lake and said he wouldn't be surprised if the 1962 King Fisherman winner comes from that lake.

"At present, two five pounders—one from St. Mary and one from Spider—are tied for top spot."

Seedhouse said he has caught as many as 78 bass from St. Mary Lake in an evening and a morning, returning all but a couple.

He thought Spider Lake, in the mid-island area near Quilicum Bay, is probably the finest bass fishing lake in North America, but pointed out difficulties of access over a private logging road.

He didn't think a big plug would catch bigger fish. "But, with big plugs, you will lose a lot of fish," he said.

Forty to 70 feet from shore is ample for casting into shore, he said.

Wilson No-Hits Angels Blasts Winning Homer

Earl Wilson, a colored 26-year-old who had failed to go the distance in nine previous starts despite a 3-2 record, shut out Los Angeles Angels 2-0 on a no-hitter for the Red Sox in Boston's Fenway Park last night. It was the second no-hitter of the season in the majors and in the American League this season.

By coincidence, Bo Belinsky, who had pitched the other no-hitter, was the losing hurler last night.

Wilson, 9-14 with Seattle of the Pacific Coast League last season, also homered with none on in the third inning to provide his own winning margin.

Red Sox fans swarmed onto the field after he got Los Angeles slugger Lee Thomas to fly deep to centre field to end the game.

Club owner Tom Yawkey quickly announced that he had torn up Wilson's contract and would give him a new one today.

Wilson faced only 31 Los Angeles batters and only two of them reached second base. He struck out five and walked four.

Closest thing to a Los Angeles hit was Billy Moran's pop fly to short left field at leadoff batter in the ninth.

Inning. Shortstop Eddie Bresnahan raced out to take it over his shoulder.

Wilson was in absolute control throughout. Albie Pearson lined sharply in the third inning but the ball was hit directly at second baseman Billy Gardner.

Registering his first major league shutout, Wilson has been considered a fine prospect for several years. However, his tendency toward wildness had cancelled out his fast ball and curve ball assets. He had a 3-2 record with Boston in 1960 but spent last season with Seattle.

Wilson is the second Negro to pitch a major league no-hitter and first in the American League. Sam Jones, then with Chicago Cubs, beat Pittsburgh 4-0 with a no-hitter on May 12, 1955.

Losing pitcher Belinsky, who had no-hit Baltimore last May 5, walked three and struck out 10 before being removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning. He had given up three hits and Sox got two more off reliever Dean Chance.

BIG WIN
It was a big win, but no was Minnesota Twins' 5-0 victory over New York Yankees. Rich Rollins smacked two-run homers his first two times up, then added two singles.

Cleveland Indians kept a game ahead of the Twins in first place by splitting with Detroit. Tigers won the opener 6-0, then Indians went 12 innings before Al Luplow's two-run homer in the 12th gave them a 3-1 victory.

DOING RECORD
Low Burdette scored his sixth straight victory with a five-hit shutout at Los Angeles, overshadowing a 13-strikeout performance by Sandy Koufax as Milwaukee defeated the Dodgers, 2-1. In a National League highlight.

It was the fifth loss for Dodgers in their last six games and they skidded to second place as the San Francisco Giants took over the lead beating Cincinnati, 6-5, in 10 innings.

Rocks Rocked, 10-1; Try Again Tonight

VANCOUVER — The Inter-City Lacrosse League is split into three definite divisions, and it was proved again here last night as Vancouver administered a 10-1 drubbing to Victoria Shamrocks.

First you have Vancouver and New Westminster, obviously destined to settle first place between the two of them. Then come the Shamrocks, comfortably ahead of Nanaimo and Norburns, but just as uncomfortably behind the top two.

Tonight in Victoria, Shamrocks try and squeeze a little closer to that first division, against New Westminster but their season record and their performance to date don't make the picture look too hopeful.

Rocks have posted all their victories against Nanaimo or Norburns. In three tries against New Westminster they have lost 23-0, 15-14, and 17-7.

Four cracks at Vancouver have ended 15-14, 10-3, 12-6, and the horror here last night.

And horror it was, for both teams. Vancouver played listless lacrosse, snapping off of

When Victoria got a penalty, Shamrocks drew 34 of the 48 minutes, and Vancouver scored five goals on the odd-man play.

Victoria's only goal came late in the second half on a power-play shot by Whitey Severon, who also found time to collect 16 minutes in penalties including a misconduct.

Fred Usselman got three goals, all on power plays; Gordie Gimples got two, and the others

Speaking Briefly Sprint Star Signed By Football's Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — For a second year, the Philadelphia Eagles will be trading, presumably to Toronto, where they attend the school in September.

Houston Colts bought outfielder Bob Cerv from New York Yankees yesterday and swapped pitcher Deane Stone with Chicago for pitcher Russ Kennerly.

Sox grabbed outfielder Charlie Maxwell from Detroit Tigers for outfielder Bob Farley, Kansas City took infielder Billy Consolo from Los Angeles Angels on waivers, and Baltimore Orioles have re-activated catcher Gus Triandos.

Former Canadian heavyweight champion James J. Parker is one of three men arrested in Toronto on an extortion charge.

American Football League has voted to appeal its $10,000,000 antitrust suit against the National Football League, which was turned down first time around.

Catcher Valmy Thomas of Rochester has been suspended 30 days for attacking International League umpire Ted Lopat.

BOB WYLLIE, looking for a spot on Canada's world cup golf team, has won the Calgary amateur golf title for the third time.

American Hockey League has awarded a franchise to Baltimore, giving the league nine teams for next season.

Funeral services will be held in Los Angeles today for Charlie Peterson, 82, famed billiards star and trick shot artist who died Saturday.

Alphonse Halli retained his European heavyweight boxing championship last night by outpointing Pierre Rolfe of Italy in Tel Aviv.

Willie Pastrano won a 10-round decision over Billy Byas Monday in New Orleans.

ROYAL ATTACK, one of California's better three-year-olds, is through for the season at Hollywood Park with a leg injury.

University of British Columbia's eight-car crew, beaten three times this season by University of Washington, tries the Seattle team again Thursday on Lake Washington.

EDMONTON ESKIMOS have re-acquired tackle Mike Volman, who refused to report to Regina for business reasons after Saskatchewan Roughriders purchased him in the player draft. Riders get their money back, and the clubs are now trying to make a trade.

Edmonton's Roy Cameron for Saskatchewan's Don Vasson.

Russia had won all 16 of its matches after yesterday's events in the Greco-Roman division of the world amateur wrestling championships in Toledo.

DUNNY McLEAN, 17-year-old from Vernon who pitches softball with either hand, has become the first white player to be signed by the touring Iowa Colored Ghosts.

Centre-linebacker Gar Warren has signed for his fifth season with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Wet Farewell For Hemming

As a farewell performance, it was not all George Hemming would have liked it to be.

Hemming, bound for Harlan, Ky., and a place in the New York Yankee chain, was to be given a big send-off last night in his final game in the Senior Amateur Baseball League. He lost, so did Naval Vets, and so did the league. The weather and Transport Workers took care of that.

Officials had expected at least 1,000 fans at Royal Athletic Park. It rained, and they barely got 400. It kept raining, and the game had to be called after five and one-half innings, a 3-1 victory for leading Transport Workers over the second-place Vets.

Hemming himself had control problems. Transport could get to him for only two hits in five innings, and he struck out five. But the 17-year-old lefthander also walked six and hit one.

Ashe Trophy To Fraser

Chief Petty Officer Gordon Fraser of Pacific Command Rifle Association (Navy) won the Albert Ashe Shield at Heale's Rifle Range Sunday. He had 97 out of 105 at 900 yards.

Sgt. Mary Robinson, Canadian Intelligence Corps, was second, just one shot behind. Fran Morse, Canadian Scottish Rifle Association was third with 95.

Winning tyro was Dave McKibbin, PCRA (N), with 92 while Jim Walker, PPCLI cadets, led cadets with 88. Scores were not released until Tuesday night.

Two City Ladies Win Golf Matches

Interior Schoolgirl Advances

VANCOUVER (CP) — Marilyn Palmer, a 15-year-old Kamloops high school girl, showed surprising form defeating Mrs. E. R. Berber 4 and 3 in the championship flight at the B.C. Close Women's Golf Tournament here Tuesday.

Marilyn, playing in her first major tourney, was one of eight golfers surviving the first round of the four-day event.

Her win pitted her against one of the favorites, Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver, in today's round.

Gayle easily defeated Mrs. A. Tobin of Vancouver 7 and 6 in Tuesday's play.

Two Victoria golfers in the championship flight also advanced. Mrs. Shirley Naysmith, tourney medalist, defeated Mrs. I. McCracken of Vancouver 4 and 3 and Mrs. Margaret Todd defeated Barbara Renwick of Vancouver 2 and 1.

CHAMP WINS
 Defending champion Janet McWha of Vancouver handily defeated Mrs. J. A. Beaton of Vancouver 6 and 5.

In other matches, Mrs. Margaret Hutton-Potts of Vancouver downed Yvonne Clark of Vancouver on the 18th hole and Mrs. J. A. Innes defeated Mrs. L. Collette on the 20th.

A total of 69 golfers teed off in wind, and showers for the first day of the tourney at Richmond Golf and Country Club. In the Palmer-Berber match, the slender Kamloops girl, youngest in the tournament, led Mrs. Berber 2 up on the first nine.

Marilyn's match today against

Miss Hitchens will be her biggest hurdle of the contest.

"This will be a big one, all right," said Marilyn, daughter of Kamloops golf professional Rod Palmer.

Miss McWha was matched against Mrs. Innes today. Mrs. Naysmith against Mrs. Hutton-Potts and Mrs. Todd against Mrs. Garnett.

Card Topped By Tag Match

Gene Kiniski and Hard-Bolled Hagerty meet Don and Roy McClarty Saturday night in a no-time-limit tag team return bout that headlines the regular wrestling card at Memorial Arena.

In other bouts, Oliver Winrush takes on Vince Montana, Johnny Como fights Lord Garfield, and Pierre LaChapelle faces Tarzan Potvin. First bout starts at 8:30 p.m.

Signing Football Imports Rugged

Some Even Want Maid Service

By United Press International
 More than 60 American imports will report for training next month to Canada's four Eastern Football Conference teams.

If history holds true, fewer than 10 of them will make the grade.

A United Press International survey showed that the four EFC clubs already have announced the signing of 56 newcomers from south of the border. Another dozen or so will be released by the time training camps are open the first week in July.

The figures continue a trend established a few years ago when rougher competition from the U.S. pro leagues forced Canadian teams to switch to a more selective approach. The trend has been accentuated in the 1960s by the addition of the free-spending American Football League to the already rugged market.

"SHOOT WORKS"
 This year's new import rosters also reflect the recent policy change away from "name" players with their accompanying high salary demands. The accent now is to "shoot the works" for one or two key men and spread the rest of the salary budget around on a variety of long shots.

General managers and coaches in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton pronounced themselves generally satisfied with their 1962 recruiting. But they stressed that it was tough going all the way.

WORKED HARDER

"We found recruiting tougher than ever," said Montreal general manager Perry Moss, "mainly because the National League worked much harder this year at competing with the AFL."

"With both the NFL and AFL to contend with, Canadian teams are caught in a squeeze," commented Lew Hayman of Toronto. "It's not only the salary offers these teams make, but also the fringe benefits—jobs, life insurance and, in one case, even maid service."

TALENT HUNT
 "With the prices they're asking, it's silly for Canadian teams to go after any number of big names," said Ottawa's George Terlep. "Instead, you shoot for one or two in this category—and hope you get them—and look around for talent among the lesser-knowns."

The Toronto Argonauts, the team that traditionally leads in import signings, heads the list again this year with 22 new Americans already under

Riders Sign Six More

OTTAWA (CP) — With their training camp due to open July 1, Ottawa-Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference Tuesday announced the names of six more Americans who will be trying out for positions on the club.

Two of the new imports have had professional experience. They are James Lindner, an offensive centre and defensive guard, who played part of last season in the American Football League with New York Titans, and lineman Clyde Kurzinski, a Hillsdale College graduate who played one year of pro ball in the United Football League with Grand Rapids Blazers.

The others are offensive guard Lee Hall from the University of Michigan; offensive end Charles Wittmer from Ohio

St. Laurent Seamen Stricken

Ten sailors from HMCS St. Laurent were taken to hospital with food poisoning Sunday at Bremerton, Wash., but rejoined their ship the next day. There have been no further outbreaks reported.

St. Laurent, a destroyer-escort, has been berthed at the Bangor naval ammunition depot for several days for torpedo practice at the USN acoustics sounding range.

Ramsay Elected

Former city alderman Hugh Ramsay has been elected chairman of Memorial Arena commission. He succeeds William Pinfield who has retired. Vice-chairman elected was Percy Frampton.

When father spends too much time fishing it is nice to be able to take the wife out to dinner in a plush restaurant. That is what Art Midlane was able to do when he won a free dinner for two at the Dominion Hotel Terra Cotta Room, as a hidden weight prize for a 19.4-pounder in the King

Fisherman contest for May. But wife Leah turned the tables Sunday. She went fishing too, and caught a 22.13-pounder to win Saanich Inlet Boatmen's Derby. They ordered steak and mushrooms, not fish. — (Colonist photo.)

Trio Tops Bass List

King Fisherman

Three five-pound bass, all caught by Colonist subscribers, are now tied for first place in the King Fisherman contest.

Latest five-pounder was caught at Spider Lake on a Jitterbug plug by A. Burton, 5042 Wesley Road.

He ties with David Ryan of Ganges for the June Fish-of-the-Month Centennial Bar, and with Mr. Ryan and Stan Brown of Nanaimo for the overall lead, the $100 Imperial Esso prize and handsome King Fisherman trophy.

Troubles Plague Old Ships

A plague of troubles has hit the former Black Ball Ferries fleet bought by the B.C. government last year.

The ferry Smokwa blew a piston last week and is now being towed by a tug back and forth on the route between Horseshoe Bay and Langdale.

The tug service is costing in the vicinity of $1,000 a day and will continue until new parts can be obtained from the east mid-way through July.

The ferry Quillayute is in dock after hitting a submerged log and damaging a propeller. She was replaced by the Bainbridge which had an engine breakdown during the weekend. The Bainbridge is now running again.

And the Toll Ferry Authority has found it difficult to maintain an hourly schedule between Tsawwassen and Sidney with the two Black Ball vessels Chinook and Kahloke.

The Chinook has replaced the Bainbridge on the Howe Sound service which leaves only three ships operating on the Lower Mainland-Vancouver Island run.

The government paid $4,621,268 for the ferries acquired from Black Ball.

LET A KOOL BE YOUR REFRESHER

We present Regular Yuban — the world's richest coffee

There is an inner circle of coffee lovers who demand their beverage in its traditional form. It is for them that we present Regular Yuban. This is the exact coffee first brewed by John Arbuckle, New York's "Coffee King", for his private use at the turn of the century. The unique Yuban blend (which many have already enjoyed in its instant form) is a combination of the most costly Latin American coffee beans... choice Medellinos, rich Coatepecs, Fancy Santos and rare aged Bucaramangas.

Naturally, such flavour is protected in a vacuum sealed tin

The same meticulous care which characterises the blending of this fine coffee was exercised in the selection of the package. The vacuum-sealed tin was chosen as the only one that gives the superlative fragrance and flavour of Regular Yuban the complete protection it deserves. Demand Yuban. A costlier coffee, but there is no other coffee like it in the world.

Garden Notes

Feed Them Tid-Bits

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

If your soil was given adequate preparation last fall or early this spring, most of our garden plants don't need any supplementary feeding in their early stages of growth—in fact, they can develop a bad case of indigestion if you ply them with goodies while they are still infants. We are coming up to a stage of growth now, however, in which a few extra tid-bits will be relished.

Fruit is undergoing quite a strain at this season of the year. Tree fruits, bush fruits and even strawberries are trying to do two jobs at once. They are producing this year's crop of leaves and fruit and at the same time must push out the branches, the canes or the runners to carry next year's crop. You can give them a big assist with a little judicious feeding, and for this purpose I don't know of anything better than common saltpetre.

Saltpetre—potassium nitrate—is absorbed by the plants almost immediately, and your plants will perk up and go to town within a few days following an application of this chemical. The stuff dissolves in water instantly—something you can't say for ordinary bag fertilizers—and it is an easy matter to make up a solution of one level tablespoonful per gallon of water and pour it over the rooting area.

A big fruit tree will take up to 15 gallons of the mixture, applied in a ring just under the outermost tips of the branches. Where the tree is growing in sod, make crowbar holes in the turf, 18 inches apart and 18 inches deep, and pour the solution in these holes. Dwarf trees will take five each and strawberries about one quart per plant, poured very slowly over the root run so it sinks in rather than running away.

Gilulolus in their early stages need nothing but water—lots and lots of water—and if your soil drains freely, you can hardly overdo the watering. The time to wean your glad babies comes when the plants have made their fifth leaf, which is the time when the first suggestion of a spike can be felt in the centre of the fan of leaves.

This is the signal to start adding a little something to the water. The same saltpetre mixture will give good spikes, giving each plant about a quart at 10-day intervals, but I have had even better results—in the case of glads—with liquid fish fertilizer. Several brands are on the market; these can be given in water at the same dosage as for the saltpetre.

Begonias also have a great fondness for fish in their diet, which is rather surprising in a plant native to inland mountain slopes. With begonias, though, I don't like to lay down any hard and fast dosages, for these plants are more than usually subject to fits of indigestion and all sorts of unpleasant things can happen if gorged on a too-rich diet.

The trick with these plants is to go by the color of the leaf. Start it off with a pint of fish-soup per week—one tablespoonful of fish emulsion fertilizer per gallon of water—and if the foliage seems a bit on the pale side, step it up slightly. An apoplectic purplish tinge to the leaf is the signal to put the plant on a reducing diet immediately.

Grass Roots Diplomacy

By MAGGY O'DOUL

LIMA, Peru—They're talking here about the disappearing lawn and the flowers that walk in the night.

Bob Clay, a technician with the U.S. foreign aid program in Peru, and his wife moved into a brand new house in posh San Ysidro, a suburb of Lima where most foreigners live. The place had no grass, nor garden.

The Clays hired a gardener named Pedro who promised to start work bright and early the next morning. He did. When the Clays looked out the window over breakfast they saw a miracle. The entire front garden was covered in a deep carpet of verdant grass.

"Good lord, man, where did you get this?" Clay asked the gardener. "You like it?" grinned Pedro delightedly. "It's all yours!"

"How much?" asked Clay.

"No extra charge, senor," said the happy Pedro.

That night the Clays, already in love with Lima, were guests of honor at a welcome party given in a neighbor's house a block away. Their host met them at the door looking bewildered.

"What a palatial room!" exclaimed Clay.

"Yeah," said his host, "but, some son of a sea cow stole our lawn last night, and I am not in buen humor!"

"Ohmy gosh!" breathed Clay.

Looking outside, he could see the garden was bare, all right. Clay inquired the name of the neighbor's gardener.

"Pedro," said the neighbor.

Two weeks later, the Clay garden was a lush jungle of lilies, fuchsias, geraniums and begonias, some bought by them, others appearing mysteriously in the night. Whenever Clay requested a bill, Pedro shook his head.

"No, senor," he said. "They are gifts."

What a welcome to Peru, thought the Clays. Nevertheless, they prudently lowered their eyes when passing the gardens of Pedro's other clients.

Then the honeymoon ended. One day the Clays awakened to a garden bare as a baseball diamond.

"Where is the lawn?" Clay asked Pedro.

"Who knows, senor?" said Pedro with a shrug.

So it went. A few weeks later, the lawn was back but the lilies had disappeared. Begonias, bought by the Clays, dropped out of sight. The next day they were back, but in a different color.

The Clays got nervous. So nervous, they moved out and took an apartment.

"The whole thing keeps haunting me, though," says Clay. "I realize that we are up against a different psychology here."

"Now, you take Pedro. Evidently he considers the lawn a sort of welcome mat for new arrivals. It doesn't seem to belong to anybody except, maybe, Peru, and he manipulates it to lower, or raise international tensions."

'Just Like Old Times'

HOLLYWOOD (AF) — It gives Mae West a warm feeling, being banned again.

"Just like old times," said Mae when she received word that her record, Am I Too Young, had been banned by a San Francisco radio station.

Her list extends from being pinched for her New York play Sex to having her Person to Person segment dropped by CBS because her mirrored bedroom and nude portraits were deemed too racy for the home screen.

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "I knew all about the birds and bees when I agreed to play Lolita," Sue Lyon said yesterday, "so it wasn't difficult to believe like a girl who knows the facts of life."

Sue was 13 years old when she signed for the picture and now that she is a cloddering old woman of 15 she resents criticism of the film.

"Just because I played a nymphet a lot of people think I'm a bad girl," she complained, her blue eyes smoky with pout. "They associate me with the character of Lolita. And that's not fair."

"I'm an actress, not a nymphet. I could play a murderer without having to kill anyone in real life. So I didn't have to have an affair with a middle-aged man to play a teen-aged mistress in Lolita. Kids today know what's going on. We're hip."

Indeed she is.

"I think of myself as a young woman, not a child," she continued. "I'm tired of having myself referred to as a 'youngster.' And in the picture I tried to play myself as far as age goes."

Sue, who is looking forward to her 16th birthday next month so that she can own a driver's licence, is sophisticated for her age. And her 34 1/2 measurements are those of a woman, not a girl.

Bing Crosby and brood will spend the month of August at the Hotel du Palais on the Basque coast of France. Deborah Kerr will be joining the St. Juan de Luz colony this summer. Irwin Shaw has a home there.

James Mason painting the totemals of "Lolita" is almost the sexiest scene in the film. This movie happens to be excellent.

Underimposed on all the information of the opening titles of Mark Robson's "Nine Hours to Rama" is the microscopic photography of the hands of a watch and the sound of its ticking. The final shot is a close-up of the blazing fire of Gandhi's funeral pyre.

The leading lady in the Robson picture, Britain's Valerie Geeson, is reticent about going to Hollywood because of Kip Gowan, handsome assistant director of her film.

Composer Bob Merrill asked his friend Jules Styne what he wanted for a wedding present. Jules recently wed model-actress Maggi Breen. "I'd like a pair of sheets and one pair of pillowcases," said Jules mentioning the shop in New York where they must be bought. Merrill thought two was too few, and ordered six of each. The bill came to $1,200.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved, and while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "I feel as though I have been cured of a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Hearings Ask Doubling Of Minimum Wages

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Federation of Labor Doubling of minimum wages for employees in wholesale and retail stores, and in the hotel and catering industry, was urged in two hearings before the B.C. Board of Industrial Relations here Tuesday.

Both groups are seeking to have their minimums raised to $1.25 from the present 65 cents an hour.

Stanley Smith, appearing for the B.C. Hotels Association, agreed that 65 cents was too little, but he asked it be raised only to 85 cents.

Judgment on both appeals was reserved by board chairman W. H. Sands, deputy provincial minister of labor, with findings to be announced later.

Centennial Project

Renovation Of City Hall Wins Favor

Rehabilitation of city hall as the nucleus of the permanent centennial year project gained further ground yesterday when a committee of architects reported on the likely costs.

The report was given to Mayor R. B. Wilson and Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the city's buildings and grounds committee, in a closed meeting yesterday morning.

EASILY, CHEAPLY

It is understood the report indicated the complete renovation of the inside of city hall could be done fairly easily and cheaply—for about $300,000, or less.

A favorable report on rehabilitation of city hall was the vital key in tentative plans to mark the city's 100th anniversary by building additional office accommodation at the rear of city hall, turning the eastern part of Cormorant Street into a park-like pedestrian mall, and possibly closing off the section of Broad Street between Cormorant and Pandora.

PRELIMINARY TALKS

Mayor Wilson admitted yesterday that a "preliminary" discussion was held with the architects—Wade, Stockhill and Armour, R. W. Siddall and city planner Roderick Clark.

"They are gathering more data and cost figures and they will give us those in a few days," he said.

His only comment about what was reported: "It was most interesting."

'Close Meat Gap'

Worried about the legality of meat inspection bylaws recently adopted by Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee is seeking special provincial legislation.

"There is a gap there (in the Municipal Act) big enough to drive a fleet of... trucks through," Coun. Allan Cox of Oak Bay commented. Coun. Cox is a city lawyer.

CONFLICTING ADVICE

The municipalities were given conflicting advice on their powers to adopt bylaws requiring all meat sold within their boundaries to be inspected.

The provincial agriculture department at first said the municipalities had no power to do this, but a subsequent letter said they did have power.

SEEK AMENDMENT

On its lawyer's advice, Saanich council refused to adopt the suggested bylaw. Victoria and Oak Bay went ahead and Esquimalt—which adopted a similar bylaw several years ago—decided to enforce it.

The committee decided to ask the provincial government to pass special legislation, amending the Municipal Act, to give municipalities definite power to adopt meat inspection bylaws.

Tug Fire Believed To Be Set

Fire—believed to have been deliberately set—broke out in two places aboard the derelict 100-foot tug Canadian National Number One at the western end of Point Ellice at 12:05 p.m. yesterday.

City firemen had to descend below deck in thick smoke to quell the main fire in the crew's quarters at the after end of the ship. They doused the flames in 20 minutes.

OIL CAN FOUND

An empty oil can was found on a bunk.

Had the fire taken hold of the ship, it might have spread to the wooden Canadian National ferry slip and the nearby Smith Cedar Products mill. Fireman John Shipley, 30, of 2378 Cadboro Bay Road, suffered a broken toe when a heavy nozzle was dropped on his foot while he was fighting the fire.

OILY RAG

Coal oil poured on a rag was found at the smaller fire, on a table top in the officers' quarters at the forward end of the ship.

"The fire appeared to have been deliberately set," said fire chief James Bayliss. "City police and the fire marshal are investigating."

AWAITING REMOVAL

The tug was sold some time ago by Canadian National Railway to General Ship Breakers 1547 Main Street, Vancouver. She had been lying at the CNR ferry slip waiting for the ship breakers to take her away.

B.C. Faces Request For Grant

Attorney-General Robert Bonner will be asked to provide a government grant towards the cost of building a new juvenile detention home for Greater Victoria.

Estimated cost is around $100,000. Decision to seek the grant was made at a meeting of Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee yesterday.

Committee was told all four member municipalities had agreed to pay their shares of construction and operating costs. On a total cost of $100,000—and without a grant from the provincial government—municipal shares would be:

Victoria $43,245; Saanich $33,280; Oak Bay $14,282; Esquimalt $9,193.

Thief Steals Woman's Watch

A lady's gold watch in hunter case, with gold chain, is missing from the home of Jack Bond, 331 Windermere Place, city police were told yesterday.

Tourist Siege 'Immense'

The predicted weekend tourist "explosion" will most likely be lost in the general pyrotechnics of the current tourist boom.

Twelve of the major city hotels and motor courts said yesterday their establishments are under steady siege from ever-renewing waves of tourists.

NO ESTIMATES

All reported an increase in the number of reservations for the coming weekend—but none could estimate on a percentage basis how high this increase is.

"Who's got time to figure percentages?" queried one reservation clerk.

The Empress Hotel was reported "booked to capacity"—and the same story prevailed in other hotels and motels.

The influx of tourists was variously described as "immense," "tremendous," "fantastic" and a "real bonanza."

All 12 operators have established a telephone service to help the Expo-Lodging people find accommodation for tourists.

DATES CLOSED

The Empress has had to close some dates for advance reservations and other downtown hotels said they would "prefer" to be underbooked than overbooked.

They said fewer reservations would enable them to handle the "off the street" applications.

Other comments:

- Ingraham Hotel: "Can't see how it could get busier."
- Strathcona Hotel: "Fantastic. We've almost given up on reservations."
- Colonial: "Been booked up for some time."
- Dominion Hotel: "Never had it so busy... never!"
- Douglas Hotel: "Busy... and getting busier."
- Imperial Motor Hotel: "Booked to capacity."

Liquor Boost Isn't Final

Attorney-General Bonner said yesterday the 25 per cent increase in the price of imported liquor, wines and beer was merely a "holding" price until the exact amount of new federal taxes is ascertained.

He expected a downward revision later this week.

Mr. Bonner declined comment when asked why the 25 per cent boost had been applied to the retail value of imported liquor when increased costs to the government applied only to the wholesale price.

Mr. Bonner said the government had not received confirmation of the exact amount.

ABOUT DOUBLE

A bottle of Scotch whisky costs the Liquor Control Board $3. Until this week it cost consumers $5.15.

The 25 per cent boost on $1 would have increased the cost to purchasers by 75 cents. Instead they pay about double—$1.50.

Mr. Bonner said the government had not received confirmation of the exact amount.

NONE VARIATION

"The LCB still has to make a formal application to the cabinet for new price listings," said Mr. Bonner. "I anticipate some variation (from the blanket 25 per cent boost)."

Distillers, who sell their product for $1 a bottle, said it was not clear if the new excise duty would apply on their price or on the $3 a bottle paid by the LCB.

Trombone Taken

A musical thief has made off with a trombone belonging to David Hodgson, 18, son of Alan C. Hodgson, 151 Wellington. The instrument disappeared from the band room at Victoria High School.

The difference of $2 is the cost of freight, insurance, handling, excise duties and an 11 per cent federal sales tax on the duty-paid value. The new surcharge is estimated at 15 per cent.

British Columbia added another 10 per cent to counter dollar-value losses.

"We feel the price should have gone up by a maximum of 75 cents," said one liquor representative.

DOLLAR-VALUE

British Columbia added another 10 per cent to counter dollar-value losses.

"We feel the price should have gone up by a maximum of 75 cents," said one liquor representative.

Suitcase Stolen

A suitcase containing $210 worth of clothing and films was stolen from the top of a car overnight Monday, C. Hewitt of San Diego, Calif., told city police.

Beaches All Safe

All Greater Victoria beaches are safe for swimming now—if you can stand the cold.

A spokesman for the metropolitan health board said yesterday bacteria tests of water showed all the beaches are safe—and "we are treating the waters all the time."

Soot, Ash Bill Hits $75,000 For City Firm

A major city building supply company claimed yesterday it has lost $75,000 in 10 years because of the clouds of smoke, soot and fly-ash rising from Victoria's industrial area.

A spokesman for the company said no public complaint had been issued by the firm before because it must do business with many of the industries involved.

The firm pays to haul truckloads of airborne waste away from its plant.

Geoffrey Stewart, a partner in the firm of Stewart and Hudson Ltd., said "we feel the cost is becoming unbearable."

The smoke issue flared again yesterday when Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee, made public the contents of a letter from Stewart and Hudson threatening to demand a sharp reduction in taxes if fly ash fallout continues.

"... If this continual deposit of fly ash continues we will have to prepare a strong case for a sharply-revised downward tax structure and assessment," said the letter from Mr. Stewart's partner, Ernest Hudson.

Ald. Edgelow promised to arrange for the smoke advisory committee to inspect the lumberyard.

A Colonist reporter was shown around the yard yesterday afternoon by Mr. Stewart. There was soot everywhere, inside and outside.

Soot Fills Hands

"Look at this," said an employee, stooping to pick up two handfuls of charcoal-colored soot at the entrance to a storage shed containing white plaster board.

Mr. Stewart ran a finger across the countertop in his office on Dunedin. He held up his dirty finger, then pointed to the window sills and black corners on the floor.

Outside the building, a mixture of raindrops and soot fell on this reporter's notepad. "We've been here for 23 years. The soot didn't become a problem until about 10 years ago," said Mr. Stewart.

"We didn't say anything because we do business with the mills and we've tried to be good neighbors."

"To my knowledge this is the first time we've ever made any complaint to city hall about it. We told one of the mills it's getting a little bit more than we can stand. But their reply was, 'It's not our mill.'"

He said he thought it would take about $75,000 to reimburse the firm for losses caused by ash during the past 10 years. Loss is running to $7,500 a year.

Thousands of feet of lumber are exposed to the relentless black deluge, and a lot of it has to be sold at reduced prices because people do not want to buy dirty wood, said Mr. Stewart.

The same was true of other building materials stored in open-front sheds on the three-to-four-acre site. Some merchandise even has to be covered with plastic sheets.

Ash Fills Gutter

Falling ash also fills rain gutters and plugs downspouts on the building, he said.

"If Diefenbaker ever had a Bill of Rights, this is one place where it should be applied. It's not right for one industry to profit and benefit at the expense of a neighbor."

The letter from Mr. Hudson stated "Stewart and Hudson Ltd. feel they bear the worst brunt of this horrible situation."

"... We have the expense of hauling away a dump truck load every two or three weeks. The loss to our stored merchandise and trucks is becoming too costly to continue."

"It is impossible to paint buildings because of the amount of black clinders settling on wet paint, making brushing impossible."

"The whole area is blighted and an eyesore, a very unpleasant place to live and work. I believe this could be corrected if mill owners would co-operate."

Before the smoke advisory committee inspects the yard it has a meeting arranged with mill, laundry and plant operators in city hall at 9:30 a.m. today.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady will attend. Meeting was arranged at the request of Mayor Wilson, Ald. Edgelow said.

"We are aiming at a co-operative, healthy discussion on the whole matter to try and achieve improvement in the situation as soon as possible," he said.

At the same time, several firms are scheduled to appear in city police court, a block away, to answer charges laid under the city smoke bylaw.

Breakwater May Wait

The federal government's new austerity program may have sunk plans for an extension to the Turkey Head breakwater.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said last night the government's decision to reduce capital works projects to the essential minimum will likely mean the breakwater will have to wait better times.

"RARE-BIT": At one of those autumns shows over on the mainland not so long ago two cars were displayed side by side. Around one was a pen containing some prize rabbits while a barbecue display was alongside the other.

The owner of the car with the barbecue went out and bought a skinned rabbit from a butcher shop and proceeded to barbecue it.

It so happens a prize rabbit went missing from the next-door display about the same time.

Try as he will, the owner of the barbecue set can't convince the rabbit owner the barbecued carcass wasn't that of the missing animal!

wife and family after a stint at the Seattle world's fair. A program of fishing and golf has been laid on for Bob and it's also likely the provincial government will be host for a small private dinner party.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Foreign investors who held shares in the B.C. Power Corporation, parent body of the B.C. Electric when it was privately owned, must be really steaming now.

They bitterly complained about the price set by the B.C. government when it expropriated the company. The matter now is the subject of litigation before the courts. Some of the money has been paid the shareholders. The rest will be paid when the case is settled.

But since the takeover the Canadian dollar has dropped about 14 cents in foreign value—an added cost to the foreign investors.

FROM BED TO WORDS: The YMCA YWCA is launching a campaign for funds to build a joint building in the Cathedral precinct area.

Committee chairman Dr. A. F. McGill has written to Mayor Richard Wilson and city council stating: "We... are requesting that the mayor and council of the City of Victoria consider favorably the supporting of our financial needs to proceed with this building."

Simple explanation: We want a grant.

NO ROOM AT THE INN: Anybody who doubts this is a fantastic tourist year merely has to have a word with the Paul Huxmans of Battle Creek, Mich. They reserved a room at the Empress last March, travelled out here by CPR train and arrived at the hotel this week. After waiting in line for 45 minutes they were told that despite the confirmation of a reservation there just wasn't a room left for them.

IDLE THOUGHT: The Twist is creating a new phenomenon. For the first time in history clothes are being worn out from the inside!

Pushbutton for Lighthouse?

Are the days of the light-house keeper numbered on Canada's west coast?

Apparently they are "way down east" where creeping automation has set in along Nova Scotia's coastline.

Electronics are replacing the lonely and rugged lighthouse keepers there, with only 50 of the transport department's 211 lights manned.

And maritime district marine agent John Ballinger says electronic advances will give his region total automation in five to 10 years.

At least one department agency has already made total conversion to automatic lights and alarms. The Sorel, Que., division no longer has an employment category known as lighthouse keeper.

But the same trend may not hold good on the west coast. Different topography and tidal conditions tend to alter the emphasis in the pushbutton-vs.-man debate.

Local district marine agent Col. Keith Dixon said Sorel and Nova Scotia were not good parallels.

A number of factors, including the extreme remoteness of many west coast lighthouses, could very well place B.C.'s coastline outside the electronic trend.

"We already have many unwatched lights and electronic fog alarms," said Col. Dixon.

"We also have lights that are controlled from shore, where it is just a matter of turning a switch."

These, he said, still had to be serviced and maintained. And in the cases of remote lights, a manned station is preferable. Considerable research is being carried out toward developing automated lighthouses, but he didn't anticipate a complete switchover within 10 years.

B.C.'s coast has two full-fledged, unmanned lighthouses, he added, on Spring Island on the west coast and the other at Holland Rock in the Prince Rupert agency.

He pointed out one basic difference between the Nova Scotia agency and B.C. was that many east coast lights were far out at sea, while B.C.'s stations were mostly on promontories.

Within the Victoria agency, there are 35 watched lighthouses, 88 gas beacons and 203 unwatched lights of various types, plus 29 fog alarms.

Prince Rupert agency has 18 watched lighthouses, 139 unwatched lights and 12 fog alarms.

Girls Wrapped In Party Paper

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The latest thing to come wrapped in party paper: Girls.

Designer Louis Margliano has come out with a $250 model in black transparent paper that he hopes will find favor with the high fashion set. And if the price tag sounds a trifle high, considering the material, hear this: You're supposed to wear it but once, then toss it in the waste basket!

Antonia Stella Stevens wore it in a tryout. Typical reaction from males in the vicinity: "It fits like wallpaper."

The paper is transparent, but you can't see through it as long as it retains folds that Margliano calls "sculpture."

It's a skin-tight number cut low enough in front to give the wearer ample breathing room.

"It has its advantages," said Margliano. "The dress weighs next to nothing. It's great for travel."

"There is a complication," mused Margliano. "You can only wear it once. Cleaning it's okay. But when you press it, the sculpture comes out of the paper. You wind up with a big, flat strip of transparent cellophane."

Couple Married At Errington

St. Mary's Anglican Church, Errington, was the recent scene of the marriage of Sharon Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mycock of Errington and Mr. Gunter Herman Richard Maruff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maruff of Powell River, B.C. Canon Leslie Grant officiated at the evening ceremony.

Ponies, carnations and stocks banked the altar. Mr. James Haworth was organist. The bride wore a gown of white satin and set topped with lace featuring a classic bouffant skirt. The neckline of the bodice was encrusted with mother-of-pearl sequins. A chapel veil was held by a sequin coronet. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Matron of honor, Mrs. A. Martinuk and Mrs. L. Herrington, both sisters of the groom and Miss Heather Martin were gowned in pale blue net and lace. They carried pink carnations and wore toning head pieces.

Flowergirl, Gladys Mycock, the bride's sister, was dressed in a frilly pink nylon frock with pink flowers in her hair and in her bouquet.

Best man was Mr. Alfred Guderjohn of Powell River and Mr. J. Mycock and Mr. L. Herrington were ushers.

The bride's table at the reception in the Errington War Memorial Hall was centred with a three-tiered cake made by her mother. Yellow roses decorated the table, Mr. R. C.

(Bob) Roberts proposed the toast to the bride. Mr. Hugh Hollins was master of ceremonies and music was provided by George Hunt of Port Alberni and members of his orchestra.

Leaving on a honeymoon to Powell River the bride changed to a pink linen ensemble with white accessories and white carnation corsage.

Fashions First on Ladies' Day

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The women took the court today in the Wimbledon tennis championships, which may be remembered as the tournament of the backless top.

Not since Gussie Moran's lution in fashion, which will drop backs revealingly, exposing much more of the female figure than can easily be remembered in these parts.

Maria Bueno of Brazil, twice the women's titleholder, has a dress plunging at the rear to within an inch of her tiny waist. South Africa's Valerie Forbes has a creation ending on the waistline.

HEARS N. COMPLAINTS

It's all completely different from last year and thoroughly in line with contemporary fashion," Tintling said Monday. "I have no wish to give my girls goose pimples, but I've had no complaints yet from those who are trying it."

Tintling has dressed the last 10 winners of the women's singles title. As designer for seven of this year's eight seeded players—Karen Hantze, Susman of the United States is the only holdout—he has a better than even chance of doing it again.

The second day of the Wimbledon championships is traditionally ladies' day, when fashion plays almost as important a part as tennis.

Hemlines, Tintling said, will be about six inches above the knee—about five inches higher than in Gussie's day. Pleats are out, ruffled ribbons are in.

Flowergirl, Gladys Mycock, the bride's sister, was dressed in a frilly pink nylon frock with pink flowers in her hair and in her bouquet.

Best man was Mr. Alfred Guderjohn of Powell River and Mr. J. Mycock and Mr. L. Herrington were ushers.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law went to Europe for a month's vacation. She left Lady Astor, her toy poodle, with us. This is what I'm writing about. That mutt is ruining our marriage. When we go out for the evening we have to hire someone to sit with her because she's not accustomed to staying alone. My wife is afraid the dog will have a heart attack if she cries too much.

Last night Lady Astor didn't eat her supper and my wife became worried. She held the dog in her arms for about an hour. When she put her down, the crying started. Finally my wife took her in bed with us. When the dog came into the bed I left. I am now bunking on an army cot in the back hall.

My wife claims that Lady Astor is as clean as any human and that I am unreasonable. She said she'd accept your verdict if I'd let her see this letter before I mailed it. She just checked the facts and said "O.K."

What do you say?—DOG'S LIFE.

Dear Life: I say your wife and Lady Astor should take the army cot and you should be back in your own bed.

Dear Ann Landers: You'll say I'm a dirty rat and you are right, but I'm willing to take the verbal lashing if you'll point a way out of this mess. I'm 23 years old and trying to get through law school. I've been going with a girl I'll call Debbie for three years. She is 21, not very good-looking, but she comes from a well-to-do family. I was her first serious sweetheart and I hope you can read between the lines when I say serious. I hate to sound like a cad but everything that happened between us was as much her idea as mine.

She is putting real pressure on me to get married. Her parents are pushing for a wedding, too. In fact, they want to buy us a bungalow and furnish it. Her father has offered to help me financially so I can devote all my time to studying.

It's the kind of a set-up most fellows would grab, but I'm not sure I want to marry this girl. Do I owe her marriage? I hope you'll say no, but I'm betting you'll say yes.—WANT OUT.

Dear Out: Well, don't bet your law library, Bub—because I'm saying no.

If all you can say about the girl is "she's fair looking and comes from a well-to-do family," your blood pressure is much too low to consider marriage.

JAVEX-clean diapers are safer

JAVEX purifies and softens diapers to guard against painful diaper rash

Washing and rinsing baby's diapers is not always enough. They may still contain harmful germs, the fabric may be too harsh for baby's tender skin. "Javex" will lift and dissolve non-hygienic residue to give an extra margin of protection and whiteness. Use "Javex" for diapers a mother can trust.

"Javex" has made the fibres of this diaper hygienically clean. Rough residue has been dissolved from the fabric, diaper now safer and more gentle for your baby. Notice how white the fabric is thanks to "Javex".

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Yans To Reside in Belgium

In St. Patrick's Church recently, Father M. J. Costello heard the double-ring marriage vows of Judith Anne Burnett and Pierre Joseph Yans, ensign, Belgian Navy.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Philip Nairn Burnett of Victoria and M. and Mme. Henri Yans of Liege, Belgium, who were represented by Lt.-Cmdr. R. D. Okros and Mrs. Okros.

White and peach-toned peonies and Esther Reid daisies decorated the church and pews were marked with white heather. Organist was Mrs. L. Gill.

The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was of white silk organza over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice, scoop neckline, lily point sleeves and belted skirt that extended into a train. A tiny crown of stephanotis held a four-tier pouff veil of silk illusion net and the bouquet was of gardenias and stephanotis. Only jewelry was a single strand of pearls.

Four attendants, Miss Toni Burnett, Miss Margot Anderson, Mrs. Robert Strijkers and Mrs. Robert McAdam all wore gowns of leaf green silk organza over taffeta. Flowered Shasta daisies completed the ensembles.

Lieut. Robert Willson, RCN, was best man and the ushers were Lieut. Don Hope, RCN, Lieut. Edward Sparling, RCN, and Ensign Robert Strijkers, Belgian Navy. As the couple left the church a naval guard of honor welcomed them.

WARDROOM RECEPTION

Reception was held in HMCS Naden wardroom where a three-tier cake, topped with Talisman roses and freesias, was cut. John Hanbury, the bride's uncle and godfather, proposed the toast.

Honeymoon is being spent on the mainland. The bride travelled in a mint-green linen weave suit with hat en tone, highlighted by pink accessories and corsage.

In September Mr. and Mrs. Yans will go to Belgium to make their future home.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandfather and great-aunt, George H. Burnett and Miss E. M. Burnett and her grandmother, Mrs. G. R. Hanbury, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. W. Goodacre, Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Hanbury with Robin and Margot, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Fairburn, all of North Vancouver; Mrs. W. A. Spencer, Mrs. Saul Bonnell, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Taffie, Miss Leslie McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McAdam and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Hartman, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. John Hanbury with Rick, Bruce and Maria of San Mateo, Calif.; Mrs. W. A. Barker, Santa Barbara; Mrs. W. Chisholm, Winnipeg; Mrs. R. D'Hollander, Ostend, Belgium; Mrs. E. Cassidy and Eileen of North Pender Island; Mr. and Mrs. S. Mowatt of Surrey, B.C.; Mr. and Mrs. H. Hobson of Youbou and Mr. and Mrs. P. Walsh of Lake Cowichan.

IODE Bursary Awarded To Miss P. Thomas

At the June meeting of the Alden Hamber Chapter IODE, with Miss Eleanor Nagle presiding, it was announced by the educational secretary, Mrs. John S. White, that the bursary for $50 for teacher training at Victoria College Summer School had been awarded to Miss Patricia Thomas of Prince Rupert. Also a gift subscription to the Order's magazine "Echoes" had been forwarded to one of the Chapter's adopted schools, Quick School at Telwika.

Miss Nagle gave a report on the joint meeting with Navy League Chapter to discuss plans for the 1962 Penny Sale, which will be held at the Odeon Theatre on November 2nd to 10th.

A film called "Challenge" covering the activities of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic was shown with introductory remarks by the secretary-manager, Mrs. Margaret McClung. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. J. H. Dalgleish with Mrs. H. J. Carruthers assisting with refreshments.

Out-of-Town Guests

Guests here to attend the Strank-Smith wedding at First United Church were Mr. and Mrs. D. Strank, Courtenay; Mrs. G. Murray, Miss Avis Murray, Miss Susan Smith and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hodgins and family, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lewington, Princeton; Mr. Barry Gear, Cumberland, and Mr. and Mrs. D. McDougall and family, Nanaimo.

Attend Ucluelet Wedding

Among guests who travelled to Ucluelet for the wedding of Jeanette Lois Baird and Warren Moraes were Victorians Mrs. A. Baird, the bride's grandmother, Mr. and Mrs. G. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Oliver, Mr. and Mrs. H. Savage, and Mr. and Mrs. R. Smith.

Errington Bride Honored

Miss Sharon Mycock, whose marriage to Mr. Gunter Herman Richard Marutt took place recently, was honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. K. Vander Haeghe when friends and neighbors gathered to present her with gifts and good wishes. Corsages were given to the bride-elect and her mother. Another shower for Miss Mycock was given by Miss Heather Martin. Corsages of red roses were given to Sharon and her mother. The gifts were brought in in a box decorated in shades of pink and white, and given to the honored guest. Games rounded out the evening for the 16 present.

Officers Elected

At the recent annual meeting of the Victoria Branch of the Gilbert and Sullivan Society of London, England, the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. J. Mead-Robbins; vice-president, Mr. W. Macht; secretary, Mrs. J. Cox; treasurer, Wendy E. Cox; program, Mr. Ivan Howell; social convener, Mrs. H. Rough; librarian, Mrs. D. Shearer.

Arrangements were made to have the annual barbecue picnic at 3000 Baynes Road in August and the annual birthday party of the branch in September before the regular meetings begin in the Fall.

Soroptimists Celebrate Anniversary

Duncan Soroptimist Club celebrated its first anniversary recently. Installation of new officers was followed by dinner and entertainment.

Mrs. J. Keen, Charter president of Nanaimo performed the ceremony. Officers are: president, Mrs. M. Schappert; vice-president, Mrs. M. Hayes; recording secretary, Mrs. B. M. Jones; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. Armstrong; treasurer, Mrs. E. Harrison; directors, Mrs. L. Cook and Mrs. J. Wright.

It was announced that during the past year the Duncan club had supplied Christmas favors and Easter baskets to a number of senior citizens. A child at the Solarium had been adopted and a Cowichan High School student had been sponsored to the University of British Columbia seminar. A refugee family had been adopted and assistance given to the Girl Guides, UNESF, Red Cross Blood Donor's Clinic, Retarded Children and the Christmas Cheer Fund.

The present project is to furnish a sun room or family room at the new hospital. The area Soroptimist Youth Foundation winner, Dugal Fraser was congratulated on his achievement.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Duncan School of Dancing. Those performing were winners at the recent festival.

Guests from Victoria at the meeting were Mrs. C. N. Boyd, Miss Mary Munn, Miss Margaret Ryall, Miss Gloria Mortimore, Miss Minnie Beveridge, Mrs. C. Godfrey and Mrs. N. Pohl of whom five performed the candle lighting service.

Rose Show Draws Crowd

NANAIMO — In spite of many and varied counter attractions, the rose show of the Nanaimo Ladies Garden Club, staged at St. Paul's Anglican Church hall, drew a continuous stream of flower lovers Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Pete Maffeo opened the show, which continued right through until 7.30 p.m., when the prizes were presented by Mrs. W. F. Matthews.

The best rose in the show came from Gabriola Island and was shown by Mrs. J. F. Baker.

There were about 150 entries in the various classes.

Building Grants

City council was yesterday asked to make a series of yearly grants towards the cost of building a combined YM-YWCA headquarters in the Cathedral Hill precinct area.

Request came in a letter from Dr. A. F. McGill, chairman of the building development committee. Similar letters have been sent to Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

EASIER YEARLY

"We feel that it might be easier for council to make us a grant on a yearly basis over a period of years than to give us a complete gift in any one year."

"We feel that there is city-wide approval for this building and we know that you will give this request your sympathetic attention."

Public appeal will open in February, 1963, Dr. McGill added.

REVIEWING GRANTS

The application will likely be referred to city finance committee which is reviewing city grants and the $25,000 sum the city sets aside each year for charitable grants.

YMCA was given a grant of $3,740 last year and the YWCA received $2,200. Similar grants will likely be given this year.

Sample Show To Promote
B.C. Goods

A sample show aimed at selling B.C.-made consumer goods to western U.S. department stores will be held in Vancouver this fall, Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce Minister Robert Bonner said yesterday.

U.S. buyers will attend the show being staged jointly by the provincial government, the federal government, the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and the Vancouver board of trade.

The show will be held at Exhibition Park, Vancouver on Tuesday, Oct. 16. Manufacturers interested in taking part are asked to get in touch with the B.C. department of industrial development, trade

To Aid Clinic

Varieties' Audience Small

By BERT BINNY

With singers Peggy Walton Packard and Dick Wood and comedian Reg Stoffer heading the bill, "Varieties '62" was presented before a small audience at Holyrood House last night.

The show had a tendency to drag, a misfortune which is magnified by empty seats in the auditorium but not caused by them.

Dancers from both the Vivian Briggs and Shellagh Mallard Studios also appeared as well as pianist Marge Elrose and singers Hugh Ross and Jim and Heather Cairns. Miss Gay Curran was mistress of ceremonies.

"Varieties '62" was staged in aid of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic.

Masons Plan Divorce Talk

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Actress Pamela Mason said today that she and her husband, actor James Mason, will discuss divorce rumors involving the couple this weekend when he returns from England.

"I want you to know that while James and I differ decisively in some of our opinions we have never even talked of divorce," she said.

Outside Branches Probed for Library

Establishment of branches of Victoria Public Library in outside municipalities will be investigated in a full-scale survey of the library service this summer.

Miss Rose Weinstein, a member of the faculty of the UBC library school, has been invited to conduct the survey.

Ownership of cars causing a parking problem on streets around the new courthouse will be investigated by city officials.

"We appreciate all the efforts of the provincial government to solve this problem and we plan to check to see who does own the cars," said Ald. Michael Griffin, chairman of the city's parking commission.

Saanich police and fire departments were busy moving equipment last night to begin operations in the $255,000 combined fire and police station at Vernon and Douglas. It opens at 8 a.m. today.

Increased pensions for some 130 city hall employees who retired before 1957 are expected to begin shortly.

Copies of the agreement to pay increases up to $25 a month will be ready within a few days, W. H. Forrester, commissioner of municipal superannuation, advised city hall yesterday.

Last meeting of the 1961-62 season of the local Institute of Radio Engineers will be a field trip to the Dominion As-

Orphans Guests Today

Fifty youngsters from the Protestant Orphanage will visit the combined Autaram-Klondike Week show at the Curling Rink today as guests of the Quarter Miller Club.

Wives and girl friends of club members will act as escorts for the youngsters, who will be taken to the show aboard a chartered bus at 6 p.m.

They will tour the Autaram display inside the Curling Club, then visit the Klondike Week carnival outside, where they will be treated to free rides and refreshments.

trophysical Observatory. Members will meet at the entrance to the dome on Little Saanich Mountain at 8 p.m. today.

New officers were installed by district governor Jack Cruise at a recent dinner held by Douglas Rotary.

President will be Gordon Dalby with Rev. David Ragg, vice-president; George Steele, secretary; Charles Lowe, treasurer, and Alex Rawlings and Roy Ketcheson, directors.

Guest speaker at the Thursday meeting of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club will be Victoria University principal Dr. Harry Hickman. Meeting will be at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel at 6:15 p.m.

Canadian Forces Decoration for 12 years' honorable service has been awarded to two men stationed at Work Point Barracks, army headquarters, announced yesterday.

Capt. R. M. Middleton and Cpl. L. A. Atkinson are members of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

Silver clasps to the Canadian Forces Decoration were awarded to Maj. R. J. Kerfoot, second-in-command of the local battalion, and Warrant Officer A. J. Rudd.

View Royal Children Near Library Use

Some 500 View Royal youngsters have got over the first hurdle toward being allowed to use the Victoria Public Library.

Greater Victoria School Board yesterday notified city council that it approves a petition from some 800 View Royal parents asking that their children be allowed to use the library.

Victorians Win 28-Cent Boost

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 600-member Pile Drivers, Bridge, Dock and Wharf Builders Union has voted to accept a 28-cent hourly wage increase over two years. Settlement affects Local 2404 Vancouver, 2415 Victoria and 1549 Prince Rupert.

Queens, Races, Parade

Program Varied For Sidney Day

Several departures from the usual format have been planned for Sidney Day this year. Among them will be a sports car competition by the Victoria Motor Sports Club, go-kart races by the Island View Go-Kart Club and a display by Michael Williams' trained sheep dogs.

BIG PARADE
Celebrations July 2 will begin with a king-sized parade from Sidney to Sandown race track.

Crowning of the Sidney queen will follow the parade, and the entertainment program will start at 2 p.m.

There will also be displays of Scottish and square dancing and a demonstration by the North Saanich High School band and drill team.

Several puppet shows have been planned and there will be pony rides, hay rides and a number of refreshment stands. Miss Canada, Nina Holden, has been invited to attend, along with Misses Victoria, Colwood and Luxton.

Organizers hope to have Victoria Sky Divers put on an exhibition.

Terrorist Victim Dies

PARIS (Reuters)—Gen. Andre Glinet, commander of the Gran area, who was seriously wounded by men of the terrorist Secret Army Organization in the western Algerian city June 14, died in a military hospital here Sunday.

Ad Libs, Exotic Titles Turn Junk Into Beauty

By ED CONGROVE

Coral Flame, Rhapsody in Blue, Blue Ice and Black Widow sounds like this year's lineup by Max Factor and Helena Rubinstein.

But while they may send many a man's blood racing, it's not for the same reason as depicted in the perfume and cosmetic ads.

These exotic-sounding titles grace such glittering belles as a '55 Chev, a '39 Ford Coupe, a durable '28 Model A.

For it takes a lot more than engineering know-how to customize a junkpile into a gleaming show car.

Imagination is the basic requirement for the home-grown car designers who add lib streamlining into body lines of elderly cars on display at this year's Autorama.

Autorama Belles Glitter

And it's only natural the same imagination that can dream up curves where angles used to be should come up with names as florid as those gracing expensive elixirs of beauty from Paris and New York.

No beauty queen preparing for her moment of triumph before the judges ever had a more intensive primping than the 30-odd hot rods and custom cars on display at the Curling Club.

But the results of those hours of polishing away minute dust specks makes for an interesting evening.

There's the luxury-type custom cars such as Rhapsody in Blue, the proud product of months of effort by Stu and Sylvia Braddick.

Most of the cars on display lean toward this category.

But, of course there are the squat, dust-colored little competition coupes, like Doug Helin's of Duncan. Business like and un-beautiful, it displays proudly its trophies of drag-strip battles amid the chrome and glitter of the custom jobs.

And one step further the bare-bones iron of Dave Johnson of Vancouver. A motor mounted on wheels... a tiny cockpit surmounted by heavy-duty roll-bars. A parachute blooming from the tail section.

No affection this, for Johnstone's bomb has been clocked at 153 miles an hour and has done the quarter mile in 10 seconds.

"The parachute helps him stop," said a buddy laconically. Then there's the car with the story that goes with it. Bloody Mary has been rebuilt from junk three times. She almost came to a bad end when police seized her in connection with a robbery.

Now, resplendent in crimson paint and $1,350 worth of new work on her body and motor, the 1939 Ford helps drive home the safety theme stressed by all legitimate custom car and drag clubs.

A hooded figure garbed as a medieval executioner poises an axe over a stained block and looks twice as lethal as the whisky bottle conveying the message that liquor plus gasoline are components of an often-fatal cocktail.

Spent Years There

Victoria Lecturer
To Speak on Africa

A Victoria lecturer who spent a number of years in Africa will give a return performance at the Bay Street Armories Thursday.

John Ellis, who left Victoria as a child for an English public school and Oxford education, will speak about his African experiences to the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island at 8.15 p.m. He lectured to a meeting of the English Speaking Union at Victoria College June 15.

Mr. Ellis served as an officer in the King's African Rifles during the Mau Mau emergency in Kenya and was a district officer and member of the British civil service in Tanganyika.

City Man
Improved

Frank Hugh Humphrey of Victoria was reported in slightly improved condition in hospital at Nalmon Arm yesterday after a weekend traffic accident which killed another Victoria resident.

Humphrey was critically injured Sunday when a car failed to negotiate a curve, hit a guard rail and rolled over near Nalmon.

Visit Birds—Sensibly

Keep Feet, Dogs, Out of Colonies

Boat owners should be careful when visiting sea bird colonies on some of the smaller islands in the Strait of Georgia.

This warning was issued yesterday by Provincial Museum biologist Charles Guiguet.

"By all means people should go and look at nesting colonies. It's an education," he said.

But when they go they should be careful.

Visiting a colony is one thing, he said, but wading through a colony and frightening the birds off or allowing a dog to run rampant across a colony is another.

He said an increasing number of people visiting bird colonies are endangering some of the rarer species of sea birds.

"The birds are frightened away from the nests and sometimes during their absence a natural enemy gets at their eggs," he said.

EARLY FARMERS

Crude axes and knives found in cliff caves in Colvins are believed to have been used by primitive farmers 800 years ago.

Committee Passes
Offer of Collection

An offer to bring a private collection of Bibles and objects of art to Victoria has been referred to Victoria University and Victoria Public Library.

Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee yesterday took this action with the offer after members rejected a suggestion that the committee provide accommodation for the collection.

Offer was made through Major Cuthbert Holmes in a letter to Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch.

"Is it not very fitting that this 'University town' where the mighty ocean meets a glorious land and where so many people live because they love it, become the home of such a collection?" he asked.

The collection is owned by J. Bradford Pengelly, Leamington, Ont., who said he was prepared to form the "Bradford Pengelly Cultural Foundation" if accommodation was provided, and operate it.

Court Eyes Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Justice Sherwood Lett of the Supreme Court of British Columbia Tuesday ordered lawyers to check the accuracy of statements attributed to Attorney-General Robert Bonner about a case now before the court.

The judge's order followed a complaint from Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation.

The Attorney-General was quoted Monday as saying that an order of the Supreme Court of Canada putting the provincially expropriated B.C. Electric back into receivership would have no effect because BCE no longer existed.

Oil Fire Closes Port

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — A gigantic oil fire, set by European Secret Army saboteurs, raged for the second day on Oran's waterfront Tuesday, closing the port to panicky Europeans clogging nearby roads in an effort to board ships for France.

SAFETY MEASURE
French authorities closed the port to all traffic as a safety measure as naval firemen battled the blaze in fuel oil reservoirs.

The announcement that the port would remain closed for only 48 hours partly reassured Europeans, who feared they would be unable to leave the country before the July 1 referendum which is expected to make Algeria an independent Moslem state.

RUMORS DENIED
The announcement meant the mass evacuation to France by ship would be resumed when danger was past.

Army loudspeakers crisscrossed through the streets reassuring Europeans that there was no truth to rumors—presumably spread by the Secret Army—that the French army would abandon Oran to the Moslem nationalists immediately after the self-determination referendum.

Record Heat Bakes Saskatoon

EDMONTON (CP) — The heat wave rolled eastward into Saskatchewan Tuesday, topping the previous high for the date at one centre as equalling the record at another.

But cooler air swept into Alberta tumbling temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below the highs recorded Monday.

Saskatoon sizzled at 95 above Tuesday, seven degrees hotter than the high for June 26 in 1926 and two degrees above the Monday temperature. At North Battleford, the 92-degree reading equaled the 1931 record. At Prince Albert, the mercury also soared to 95.

Poisonous Seeds Start New Summer Attack

Three local cases of laburnum seed poisoning have prompted hospital officials to warn parents to keep a close watch on their children.

The three, all youngsters under 10 years of age who had eaten seeds from laburnum trees, were successfully treated at the poison control centre of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

So far no laburnum victims have been treated at St. Joseph's Hospital but emergency staff are waiting for the usual summer onslaught.

Royal Jubilee handles 20 or more cases of laburnum poisoning each year, most during the summer.

To avoid danger laburnum victims should be treated within a half hour of swallowing the poisonous seed, although successful treatment has been administered an hour after the seed was eaten.

Symptoms of poisoning are a burning of the mouth and stomach, nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, delirium, and in serious cases, unconsciousness.

Deadlock Complete In Medicare Fight

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons' governing council said late Tuesday it cannot recommend to its members that they change plans to provide only emergency medical service after July 1.

The college council said in a press release the government should withdraw the July 1 starting date for the act setting up the province's compulsory medical care insurance program.

FLAT REJECTION
The statement appeared to be a flat rejection of proposals and concessions made by the government during a series of three days and Monday.

During the series of meetings, Premier Lloyd said the government would allow doctors to practise outside the plan if they wished. Mr. Lloyd also agreed to delete or repeal sections of the act to which the doctors objected.

SESSION REJECTED
Commenting in a telephone interview on the college's statement, Premier Lloyd said the government will not consider delaying the plan or calling a special session of the legislature to put its proposals into legislation.

He said the concessions the government had made were "beyond any which could have been expected from us. The concessions were difficult to make."

The council rejected Mr.

Lloyd's proposal that a public and documentary statement on his proposals would be sufficient to allow the doctors to practise privately until the enabling act was amended next February, date of the normal legislative session.

The council said Mr. Lloyd's offer that the cabinet take responsibility to make order-in-council regulations which would circumvent the act could not be accepted.

CHANGE OR VANISH

The college said the regulation could be changed overnight by another order-in-council or disappear completely if it was challenged in the courts.

Thus the future of the profession rests on the whim of the cabinet.

"Under Mr. Lloyd's proposal the act would still control the patients and the services they would receive."

Austerity Halts Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's austerity program has forced cancellation of a commission on banking and finance had planned to begin here next Tuesday.

Boom Over Nevada?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. said Tuesday it is considering triggering a few low-yield nuclear devices in the air over its Nevada testing grounds.

Since the U.S. resumed testing last fall, 38 underground explosions have been set off in Nevada. Attempted blasts in space and atmosphere have been confined to the Pacific testing grounds.

If a go-ahead is given, first blast will come July 6 and all precautions would be taken to hold radiation to safe levels.

PEACEFUL USE

The tests would be part of a program designed to test the peaceful use of nuclear explosives.

The U.S. also will make a new try at a high altitude blast in the Pacific after two failures.

Britain Holds Power

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Macmillan said in a major defence policy debate in Parliament Tuesday that Britain will continue to maintain its independent nuclear deterrent.

Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell asked: "Is the British government free to use its nuclear weapons as it thinks, without consultation with the agreement with the United States?"

Macmillan replied: "The British government is free because the forces are located here. The American government is not free in respect to forces located here."

NEITHER WOULD

"Then... there is, as a matter of practice, an understanding with which I had with (former) President Eisenhower and have now with President Kennedy that neither of us, in any part of the world, would think of using power of this kind without consultation with each other."

"But that does not take away the independent right of both the Americans and the British."

QUERIED BY LIBERAL

Jo Grimond, leader of the Liberals, asked:

"Do you not find it extremely difficult to bring any pressure on other countries to forego arming themselves with nuclear weapons so long as we insist on maintaining this so-called independent deterrent?"

Macmillan said: "You may be right in that. France is a nuclear power and I think likely to remain one. The British government quite understands the reasons for their policy."

Sailboat Flips Man Drowns

The son of an associate editor of The Daily Colonist drowned at Parksville yesterday while trying to swim ashore from a capsized sailboat.

Dead is Richard Young, 22, of 383 Sunset, father of two small children and son of Colonist financial editor Harry W. Young.

A companion, Gordon Knox, about 24, also of Victoria, survived the ordeal by clinging to the overturned craft until rescued by Walter Gwyer, operator of the French Creek boat basin.

SHOCK, EXPOSURE

Knox was treated by a doctor for shock and exposure. Families of both men were holidaying at a cabin at Northwest Bay owned by the Young family.

The men left Northwest Bay in a 20-foot sailboat owned by Young's father. The boat capsized about 1½ miles offshore from Parksville during the afternoon.

WEARING RAINCOAT

Both men held on to the hull for about one hour before Young tried to swim ashore. He was wearing all his clothing and a raincoat in addition to a lifejacket, said RCMP.

Waves were heavy and whitecaps were breaking on the water.

Shortly after Knox was plucked from the water by Gwyer, the crew of the tugboat "Gypo" II recovered Young's body floating in the water and tried in vain to revive him by artificial respiration.

TOOK IN TOW

A department of transport vessel, the Sir James Douglas, took the sailboat in tow. Knox returned to the cabin at Northwest Bay where he was attended by a physician.

The body of Richard Young was taken to Westwood funeral home in Nanaimo.

RECENT PROMOTION

Young was employed by the T. Eaton Co. in Victoria. He was promoted recently.

"He was a very promising young man in our company. We'll certainly miss him," said a spokesman for the firm.

Today's the Last Day To Get in the Swim

Today is today — deadline day — for registration in the Colonist free swim classes.

After 3 p.m. today no more application forms will be accepted.

TIME NEEDED

Although classes don't start until July 3 at Elk Lake's Hamsterley Beach and July 6 at Queen Margaret's School pool in Duncan, the intervening time is needed to separate children into age groups, arrange bus schedules and line up assistant swim teachers.

APPLICATION FORM

Chief instructor Margie Naysmith reminds parents to fill in the application form printed on Page 12 and get it in to the Colonist by 5 p.m. today.

She doesn't want children to miss out on her classes just because they weren't registered in time.

As many classes as necessary to handle this year's registration will be organized with groups kept as small as possible to allow for individual instruction.

Last year 1,111 youngsters between the ages of eight and 14 registered in Colonist free swim classes.

DATES LISTED

Lists of this year's students from the Greater Victoria area will be published in the Colonist Friday and again Sunday. Duncan swim classes will be printed July 4.

If two or more youngsters would like to learn together in the same class, parents must include a written request together with the application forms.

EIGHT TRIPS

Bus tickets for eight round trips to Elk Lake will be available at the Colonist editorial offices until Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for $2.50.

Speculation Rumors Grip Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Speculation developed Tuesday that former Ontario premier Leslie Frost might figure in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cabinet reorganization.

The Frost report was only one of many as the familiar atmosphere of political speculation and rumor once more gripped Ottawa after a hiatus during the eight-week election campaign and last week's intensive planning for the government's austerity program.

His name was linked in some speculation with the federal has developed on the five pension-fund portfolios, now held by Hon. Donald Fleming, on the one vacancy is good for a dozen grounds he is a former Ontario or more names.

Surprisingly little speculation about the five pension-fund portfolios, now held by Hon. Donald Fleming, on the one vacancy is good for a dozen grounds he is a former Ontario or more names.

Crisis Not New

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign exchange situation reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago, Liberal Leader Pearson said Tuesday as he reiterated his demand that Parliament meet before the end of July to deal with the problem.

The opposition leader thus directly contradicted Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

A short while before Mr. Pearson issued his statement, Mr. Diefenbaker had reiterated to reporters that the emergency arose "in recent days."

Mr. Pearson said every Canadian will support whatever measures the Liberal leader said, it is the measures.

Nation to Help

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said Tuesday he is sure the nation will co-operate with the federal government's new financial measures.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas said the measures demonstrate the need for a speedy convening of Parliament.

"I am sure all Canadians will work together on this despite their political persuasions," he said in a telephone interview from his summer home at Carlyle Lake.

Mr. Pearson said every Canadian will support whatever measures the Liberal leader said, it is the measures.

OTTAWA (CP) — Real Caouments, over the government's austerity program.

He said any impression that the Social Credit party, Tuesday night denied suggestions that he and his national leader, Robert Thompson, are at odds Credit philosophy and we do in some of their public state not have different versions."

Senator Named

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet, including its time while emergency financial measures take effect, is retiring July 1 to become president of the Air Industries Association of Canada, will continue as president of the Northern Ontario Pipeline Crown Corporation.

The Liberal party's 99 newly-elected MPs were to gather here today for what was described as "a briefing session and exchange of views." The Senate Credit party, which elected 20 members June 18, was to have a caucus of its 25 Quebec MPs in Quebec City today.

The New Democratic Party will get in the swim with a caucus in Winnipeg July 12 of its 19 members.

There appeared to be no plans in the wind for an early meeting of the 116 Conservatives elected to the 265-seat Commons.

In other replies to reporters' questions, the prime minister said:

Regier Gets Green Light To Give Douglas Seat

For Stores, Hotels

Hearings Ask Doubling Of Minimum Wages

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Federation of Labor Doubling of minimum wages for employees in wholesale and retail stores, and in the hotel and catering industry, was urged in two hearings before the B.C. Board of Industrial Relations here Tuesday.

Both groups are seeking to have their minimums raised to $1.25 from the present 65 cents an hour.

Stanley Smith, appearing for the B.C. Hotels Association, agreed that 65 cents was too little, but he asked it be raised only to 85 cents.

Judgment on both appeals was reserved by board chairman W. H. Sands, deputy provincial minister of labor, with findings to be announced later.

B.C. Ferry Away Today

Four return trips have been cut from today's B.C. government Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen ferry schedule because another ferry is drydocked for repairs after being damaged on the Powell River run.

Mv Chinook, which would normally leave here at 10 a.m. and 2, 6 and 10 p.m. on the one-hour service schedule, has been pulled out to take over the Horseshoe Bay-Langdale run.

Mac-Powell Getting New Protest

PORT ALBERNI — Ald. George Folkard told council Monday fly-ash from local mills is still a nuisance but Alberni now is receiving the largest share of the air-borne refuse from Port Alberni mills.

He said he could sweep up a half-ton from the entrance of his Alberni store each morning.

Ald. Folkard moved another letter be written to MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. President Ernest Shorter complaining of the condition. The motion was passed.

Mayor Loran Jordan commented on the impression made by the fly-ash on tourists. He complimented Port Alberni and district Chamber of Commerce on the brochure, industrial and tourist, issued this year.

A board of appeal has allowed a reduction of $187,365 in assessments of MacMillan-Powell River land in the city of Port Alberni.

SAVINGS CITED
The board's ruling will save the firm $4,631.62 in taxes and will affect the city's budget by a reduction of approximately $1,500.

City assessor Joe Ruissen explained the assessments concerned were on land only, most of it in the area taken in by the extension last fall of the city's southern boundary. Only some of the land involved was subject to taxation for school purposes.

MARINE PARK

Parks branch of the provincial government is having difficulty in finding property which MacMillan-Powell River will accept in exchange for China Creek estuary, which is scheduled for development as a marine park.

Ald. Folkard reported the holdup in negotiations when he told of a visit to Recreation Minister Westwood.

FOR NEXT YEAR
He said he had impressed on the minister the need for camping facilities in this area and the hope development of China Creek would be completed in time for next year's tourist season.

Mr. Westwood had commended the Twin Cities for their action in developing a temporary camping area on Somass River.

The minister promised he would take up the matter of reserving a site for the tourist bureau with the department of highways.

School Bids Accepted In Duncan

PORT ALBERNI — School board of District 70 approved three tenders for construction of school buildings after studying a total of 10 bids.

Accepted subject to department of education approval was the tender of Southern Construction Ltd. for an addition and alterations to Calgary Elementary.

The successful bid was $35,855, plus $3,779 for optional ventilation. Highest of four tenders was $52,922, plus $3,960 for the additional ventilation system.

A three-room school on Faber Road, Sprout Lake, was tendered on by three firms. Lowest and approved by the board was that of Port Alberni Home Builders Ltd., $41,997. Highest was $44,958.

Bids on the two-room Riverhead school ranged from $32,057 to $33,200. The tender of E. J. Hunter and Sons of Victoria, lowest of the three was approved.

Nanaimo Exhibition Set for September

NANAIMO — Dates have been set for the Vancouver Island Exhibition. It will be held Sept. 13, 14, 15, instead of in August as last year, in order to avoid clashing with other island fairs.

The exhibition will be held in Exhibition Park, and the exhibition board soon will conclude the necessary arrangements with the civic properties and recreation commission. Prize list will be published shortly.

Libraries Better Trustees Claim

NANAIMO — Schools of this district already have a better library system than that offered by the regional librarian, trustees said in a statement yesterday.

The school board said all its schools, both urban and rural, have been provided with library books at a rate two thirds more than the provincial grant.

FOR FOUR YEARS
Each secondary school has had a professional librarian since it was established, and the senior high school took on a professional librarian as soon as its enrolment justified one. Elementary schools have had a full-time professional librarian for four years.

The board added: "The province offered this district by the Vancouver Island regional librarian would add nothing whatever to the school library services which this district already enjoys."

Furthermore, it would not only be considerably more costly to this district, it would also result in fewer books per dollar than are already achieved, since its administrative and distribution costs would be relatively higher.

"The regional librarian has made no survey of the library services provided by this district, and his recent comments in the press indicate that clearly."

"Furthermore, the Nanaimo School Board is not aware under whose authority the regional librarian acts, either in promoting his plan or in making public statements regarding the well-considered decisions of a local board."

"The school board will make enquiries within the Public Library Commission, and other appliances and to effect this year, or will force an increase of 10 mills in taxes."

Such increased taxes would fall unevenly and inequitably upon ratepayers and cause hardship which, in some cases, would be unendurable.

The mayor and all aldermen roundly criticized the premier's suggestions, and a resolution was unanimously passed to the effect the council views the proposals with great concern and urges the premier to reconsider.

Council will seek an opportunity to discuss the matter with Mr. Bennett.

Tourist Siege 'Immense'

The predicted weekend tourist "explosion" will most likely be lost in the general pyrotechnics of the current tourist boom.

Twelve of the major city hotels and motor courts said yesterday their establishments are under steady siege from ever-renewing waves of tourists.

NO ESTIMATES
All reported an increase in the number of reservations for the coming weekend — but none could estimate on a percentage basis how high this increase is.

"Who's got time to figure percentages?" queried one reservation clerk.

The Empress Hotel was reported "booked to capacity" — and the same story prevailed in other hotels and motels.

The influx of tourists was variously described as "immense," "tremendous," "fantastic" and a "real bonanza."

All 12 operators have established a telephone service to help the Expo-Lodging people find accommodation for tourists.

DATES CLOSED
The Empress has had to close some dates for advance reservations and other downtown hotels said they would "prefer to be underbooked than overbooked."

They said fewer reservations would enable them to handle the "off the street" applications.

Other comments:

● Ingham Hotel: "Can't see how it could get busier."

● Strathcona Hotel: "Fantastic. We've almost given up on reservations."

● Colonial: "Been booked up for some time."

● Dominion Hotel: "Never had it so busy... never!"

● Douglas Hotel: "Busy... and getting busier."

● Imperial Motor Hotel: "Booked to capacity."

Some Cuts Seen

Liquor Boost Isn't Final

Attorney-General Bonner said yesterday the 25 per cent increase in the price of imported liquor, wines and beer was merely a "holding" price until the exact amount of new federal taxes is ascertained.

He expected a downward revision later this week.

Mr. Bonner declined comment when asked why the 25 per cent boost had been applied to the retail value of imported liquor when increased costs to the government applied only to the wholesale price.

ABOUT DOUBLE
A bottle of Scotch whisky costs the Liquor Control Board $3. Until this week it cost consumers $5.45.

The 25 per cent boost on $3 would have increased the cost to purchasers by 75 cents. Instead they must pay about double — $1.35.

Mr. Bonner said the government had not received confirmation of the excise amount.

SOME VARIATION
"The LCB still has to make a formal application to the cabinet for new price listings," said Mr. Bonner. "I anticipate some variation from the blanket 25 per cent boost."

Distillers, who sell their product for $1 a bottle, said it was not clear if the new excise duty would apply on their price or on the $3 a bottle paid by the LCB.

DOLLAR-VALUE
British Columbia added another 10 per cent to counter dollar-value losses.

"We feel the price should have gone up by a maximum of 75 cents," said one liquor representative.

Soot, Ash Bill Hits $75,000 For City Firm

A major city building supply company claimed yesterday it has lost $75,000 in 10 years because of the clouds of smoke, soot and fly-ash rising from Victoria's industrial area.

A spokesman for the company said no public complaint had been issued by the firm before because it must do business with many of the industries involved.

The firm pays to haul truckloads of airborne waste away from its plant.

Geoffrey Stewart, a partner in the firm of Stewart and Hudson Ltd., said "we feel the cost is becoming unbearable."

The smoke issue flared again yesterday when Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the city's smoke advisory committee, made public contents of a letter from Stewart and Hudson threatening to demand a sharp reduction in taxes if fly ash fallout continues.

"... If this continual deposit of fly ash continues we will have to prepare a strong case for a sharply-revised downward tax structure and assessment," said the letter from Mr. Stewart's partner, Ernest Hudson.

Ald. Edgelow promised to arrange for the smoke advisory committee to inspect the lumberyard.

Soot Fills Hands

"Look at this," said an employee, stooping to pick up two handfuls of charcoal-colored soot at the entrance to a storage shed containing white plaster board.

Mr. Stewart ran a finger across the countertop in his office on Dunedin. He held up his dirty finger, then pointed to the window sills and black corners on the floor.

Outside the building, a mixture of raindrops and soot fell on this reporter's notepad. "We've been here for 23 years. The soot didn't become a problem until about 10 years ago," said Mr. Stewart.

"We didn't say anything because we do business with the mills and we've tried to be good neighbors."

"To my knowledge this is the first time we've ever made any complaint to city hall about it. We told one of the mills it's getting a little bit more than we can stand. But their reply was, 'It's not our mill.'"

He said he thought it would take about $75,000 to reimburse the firm for losses caused by ash during the past 10 years. Loss is running to $7,400 a year.

Thousands of feet of lumber are exposed to the relentless black deluge, and a lot of it has to be sold at reduced prices because people do not want to buy dirty wood, said Mr. Stewart.

The same was true of other building materials stored in open front sheds on the three-to-four-acre site. Some merchandise even has to be covered with plastic sheets.

Ash Fills Gutter

Falling ash also fills rain gutters and plugs downspouts on the building, he said.

"If Diefenbaker ever had a Bill of Rights, this is one place where it should be applied. It's not right for one industry to profit and benefit at the expense of a neighbor."

The letter from Mr. Hudson stated "Stewart and Hudson Ltd. feel they bear the worst brunt of this horrible situation."

"We have the expense of hauling away a dump truck load every two or three weeks. The loss to our stored merchandise and trucks is becoming too costly to continue."

"It is impossible to paint buildings because of the amount of black cinders settling on wet paint, making brushing impossible."

"The whole area is blighted and an eyesore, a very unpleasant place to live and work. I believe this could be corrected if mill owners would co-operate."

Before the smoke advisory committee inspects the yard it has a meeting arranged with mill, laundry and plant operators in city hall at 9.30 a.m. today.

City solicitor T. P. O'Grady will attend. Meeting was arranged at the request of Mayor Wilson. Ald. Edgelow said.

Breakwater May Wait
The federal government's new austerity program may have sunk plans for an extension to the Turkey Head breakwater.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said last night the government's decision to reduce capital works projects to the essential minimum will likely mean the breakwater will have to wait better times.

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

"RARE-BIT": At one of those autorama shows over on the mainland not so long ago two cars were displayed side by side. Around one was a pen containing some prize rabbits while a barbecue display was alongside the other.

The owner of the car with the barbecue went out and bought a skinned rabbit from a butcher shop and proceeded to barbecue it.

It so happens a prize rabbit went missing from the next-door display about the same time.

Try as he will, the owner of the barbecue set can't convince the rabbit owner the barbecued carcass wasn't that of the missing animal!

THE THINGS WE HEAR: Visitor to our town next month will be comedian Bob Hope who is coming here with his wife and family after a stint at the Seattle world's fair.

A program of fishing and golf has been laid on for Bob and it's also likely the provincial government will be host for a small private dinner party.

INCIDENTAL INTELLIGENCE: Foreign investors who held shares in the B.C. Power Corporation, parent body of the B.C. Electric when it was privately owned, must be really steaming now.

They bitterly complained about the price set by the B.C. government when it expropriated the company.

The matter now is the subject of litigation before the courts. Some of the money has been paid the shareholders. The rest will be paid when the case is settled.

But since the takeover the Canadian dollar has dropped about 14 cents in foreign value — an added cost to the foreign investors.

Authors Cannot Simply Entertain

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John has directed a letter to Paul Emile Cardine, presently in session at the conference of the International Association of Authors and Television, saying that authors of films and television shows cannot afford simply to entertain and fascinate the vast public.

The letter was sent on the occasion of the conference of the International Association of Authors and Television, which is presently in session at the Vatican. The letter was signed by the Vatican secretary of state, Amleto Cardinal Cicognani.

The letter expressed certainty that the influence of cinema and television on humanity will be always greater in the future and that considering their grave responsibility authors "must consider themselves educators of society and know how to utilize their art to enrich, illuminate and elevate souls."

Not Invited

Varieties' Audience Small

By BERT BINNY

With singers Peggy Walton Packard and Dick Wood and comedian Reg Stofor heading the bill, "Varieties '62" was presented before a small audience at Holyrood House last night.

The show had a tendency to drag, a misfortune which is magnified by empty seats in the auditorium but not caused by them.

Dancers from both the Vivian Briggs and Shellagh Mallard Studios also appeared as well as pianist Marge Elrose and singers Hugh Ross and Jim and Heather Cairns. Miss Gay Curran was mistress of ceremonies.

"Varieties '62" was staged in aid of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic.

Masons Plan Divorce Talk

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Pamela Mason said today that she and her husband, actor James Mason, will discuss divorce rumors involving the couple this weekend when he returns from England.

"I want you to know that while James and I differ decisively in some of our opinions we have never even talked of divorce," she said.

Improved Street Lighting Planned

PORT ALBERNI — Council has adopted a comprehensive plan for improving street lighting in the city.

At the meeting Monday night, Ald. Les Hammer outlined the program which will include installation of fluorescent lights along Tenth Avenue from Argyle to Redford and east on Redford Street from Tenth.

A new subdivision in the Comox Street area, Cameron Heights and Durante Streets will have lights installed at intersections, using the lamps being replaced by 200-watt fluorescent lights in older parts of the city. Mercury vapor lights will be installed between Sixth and Tenth Avenues on Argyle Street.

CHEMAMUS — Michael O'Shea, Chemamus, was remanded until July 5 in magistrate's court, Tuesday, on a charge of criminal negligence while operating a motor vehicle.

Accused was involved in an accident May 19, when the truck he was driving struck a power pole, killing one of the three passengers. Johnna Maria Kozyn, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Kozyn, Marchmont Road, Duncan.

NANAIMO — John Whyte, regional librarian, announces that the Vancouver Island regional library has been successful in obtaining one of four "Julia Wright Merrill" awards, which are presented for the best annual report among regional libraries.

Orphans Guests Today

Fifty youngsters from the Protestant Orphanage will visit the combined Autarama-Klondike Week show at the Curling Rink today as guests of the Quarter Miller Club.

Wives and girl friends of club members will act as escorts for the youngsters, who will be taken to the show aboard a chartered bus at 5 p.m.

They will tour the Autarama display inside the Curling Club, then visit the Klondike Week carnival outside, where they will be treated to free rides and refreshments.

The remaining three awards all went to Ontario regional libraries, Ottawa, Sudbury and North York.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce for Thursday has been cancelled.

Instead, a meeting will be held July 5 at the Hospitality House — the former forestry office on the Island Highway, now transformed into a tourist information bureau.

Open house will be held from 7.30 p.m. when tourists and residents alike are invited.

TOFINO — Tricky sands of Long Beach have almost claimed two visitors' cars in the last two weeks. Both were pulled free by wreckers, but will need considerable repairs.

Residents feel warning signs should be posted for tourists who want to stop on the inviting beach for pictures, telling of the danger of their cars sinking into the sand beyond recovery.

DUNCAN — Dominion Day weekend activities at the Maple Bay Yacht Club include races on Sunday and Monday. Fleet captain is Bob Sherman of Maple Bay Road, and races will be run for the first time from the club's new 60-foot float. There will also be a junior dance at the Maple Bay Yacht Club Saturday evening.

COURTENAY — Two horse shows and a car gymkhana are planned for the July 1 weekend here.

There will be no parade or official celebration of Canada's birthday in this area.

Comox Valley Riding Club will hold a junior gymkhana Sunday and a gymkhana Monday for the seniors under B.C. Western Horseman rules. The 120-member club will use proceeds for the development of the Tye Bowl, where equestrian events are held.

Th Upper Island Sports Car Club will hold a gymkhana Monday. Competition involves skill-driving around an obstacle course.

PORT ALBERNI — Six children fell in the Recreation Park wading pool in a half-hour period last Saturday, council was informed by A. Bachmeyer, who suggested that the pool edge be equipped with a bumper pad in order to avoid serious injury to youngsters using the pool.

The matter was turned over to the parks committee, with Mayor Loran Jordan recommending immediate draining of the pool to put it out of use until the situation had been remedied.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Lake fishing has been excellent, especially at the Upper Quinam and the Lower Campbell.

George Harris and Fred Patton, Port Alberni, got their limit in each of three days of fishing, one weighing four pounds three ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Parsons, of Arizona, landed 19 trout in two days. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jacobson, Seattle, had 16 trout in two days and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Storrer, Victoria, reached a total of 20 in two days. George Nielsen of Port Comox landed a fine three-pounder.

Bobbie Nuttall, Campbell River, in two and a half hours' fishing landed nine trout, weighing from one and one-half to two and three-quarters. Anglers used Willow Leaf 66 and Number Four Flatfish.

Arbitration Nurses' Aim

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's 200,000 nurses decided Tuesday to seek arbitration on their long-disputed wage demands. The nurses have rejected a government offer of a 2½-per-cent pay increase—the limit the government regards as advisable under its wage restraint policy. Last week Britain's industrial court awarded an increase of about 13 per cent to hospital workers and psychiatric social workers.

Costly Blaze Sweeps Store

Ad Libs, Exotic Titles Turn Junk Into Beauty

By ED CONGROVE

Coral Flame, Rhapsody in Blue, Blue Ice and Black Widow sounds like this year's lineup by Max Factor and Helena Rubinstein.

But while they may send many a man's blood racing, it's not for the same reason as depicted in the perfume and cosmetic ads.

These exotic-sounding titles grace such glittering belles as a '55 Chev, a '39 Ford Coupe, a durable '28 Model A.

For it takes a lot more than engineering know-how to customize a junkpile into a gleaming show car.

Imagination is the basic requirement for the home-grown car designers who ad lib streamlining into body lines of elderly cars on display at this year's Autorama.

Autorama Belles Glitter

And it's only natural the same imagination that can dream up curves where angles used to be should come up with names as florid as those gracing expensive elixirs of beauty from Paris and New York.

No beauty queen preparing for her moment of triumph before the judges ever had a more intensive primping than the '30s hot rods and custom cars on display at the Curling Club.

But the results of those hours of polishing away minute dust specks makes for an interesting evening.

There's the luxury-type custom cars, such as Rhapsody in Blue, the proud product of months of effort by Stu and Sylvia Braddick.

Most of the cars on display lean toward this category.

But, of course there are the squat, dust-colored little competition coupes, like Doug Hellen's of Duncan. Businesslike and un-beautiful, it displays proudly its trophies of drag-strip battles amid the chrome and glitter of the custom jobs.

And one step further—the bare-bones iron of Dave Johnstone of Vancouver. A motor mounted on wheels... a tiny cockpit surmounted by heavy-duty roll-bars. A parachute blooming from the tail section.

No affection this, for Johnstone's bomb has been clocked at 153 miles an hour and has done the quarter mile in 10 seconds.

"The parachute helps him stop," said a buddy laconically. Then there's the car with the story that goes with it. Bloody Mary has been rebuilt from junk three times. She almost came to a bad end when police seized her in connection with a robbery.

Now, resplendent in crimson paint and $1,350 worth of new work on her body and motor, the 1939 Ford helps drive home the safety theme stressed by all legitimate custom car and drag clubs.

A hooded figure garbed as a medieval executioner, poised an axe over a stained block and looks twice as lethal as the whisky bottle conveying the message that liquor plus gasoline are components of an often-fatal cocktail.

Court Eyes Bonner

VANCOUVER (CP) — Chief Justice Shawcross left of the Supreme Court of British Columbia Tuesday ordered lawyers to check the accuracy of statements attributed to Attorney-General Robert Bonner about a case now before the court.

The judge's order followed a complaint from Douglas McK. Brown, counsel for B.C. Power Corporation.

The Attorney-General was quizzed Monday as saying that an order of the Supreme Court of Canada putting the provincially-expropriated B.C. Electric back into receivership would have no effect because BCE no longer existed.

Oil Fire Closes Port

ORAN, Algeria (AP) — A gigantic oil fire, set by European Secret Army saboteurs, raged for the second day on Oran's waterfront Tuesday, closing the port to panicky Europeans clogging nearby roads in an effort to board ships for France.

SAFETY MEASURE

French authorities closed the port to all traffic as a safety measure as naval firemen battled the blaze in fuel oil reservoirs.

The announcement that the port would remain closed for only 48 hours partly reassured Europeans, who feared they would be unable to leave the country before the July 1 referendum which is expected to make Algeria an independent Moslem state.

RUMORS DENIED

The announcement meant the mass evacuation to France by ship would be resumed when danger was past.

Army loudspeakers vane cruised through the streets reassuring Europeans that there was no truth to rumors—presumably spread by the Secret Army—that the French army would abandon Oran to the Moslem nationalists immediately after the self-determination referendum.

Record Heat Bakes Saskatoon

EDMONTON (CP) — The heat wave rolled eastward into Saskatchewan Tuesday, topping the previous high for the date at one centre and equalling the record at another.

But cooler air swept into Alberta tumbling temperatures 10 to 15 degrees below the highs recorded Monday.

Saskatoon sizzled at 95 above Tuesday, seven degrees hotter than the high for June 26. In 1926 and two degrees above the Monday temperature. At North Battleford, the 92 degree reading equaled the 1931 record. At Prince Albert, the mercury also soared to 95.

Deadlock Complete In Medicare Fight

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons' governing council said late Tuesday it cannot recommend to its members that they change plans to provide only emergency medical service after July 1.

The college council said in a press release the government should withdraw the July 1 starting date for the act setting up the province's compulsory medical care insurance program.

FLAT REJECTION

The statement appeared to be a flat rejection of proposals and concessions made by the government during a series of three days and Monday.

During the series of meetings, Premier Lloyd said the government would allow doctors to practise outside the plan if they wished. Mr. Lloyd also agreed to delete or repeal sections of the act to which the doctors objected.

Commenting in a telephone interview on the college's statement, Premier Lloyd said the government will not consider delaying the plan or calling a special session of the legislature to put its proposals into legislation.

He said the concessions the government had made were "beyond any which could have been expected from us. The concessions were difficult to make."

The council rejected Mr. Lloyd's proposal that a public and documentary statement on his proposals would be sufficient to allow the doctors to practise privately until the enabling act was amended next February, date of the normal legislative session.

The council said Mr. Lloyd's offer that the cabinet take responsibility to make order-in-council regulations which would circumvent the act could not be accepted.

CHANGE OR VANISH

The college said the regulation could be changed overnight by another order-in-council or disappear completely if it was challenged in the courts.

Thus the future of the profession rests on the whim of the cabinet.

"Under Mr. Lloyd's proposal the act would still control the patients and the services they would receive."

Next Rocket Down-Bound?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet scientists may be about to launch a radio-controlled rocket — straight down "into the earth's interior."

The report, from a Czech newspaper quoting a Soviet expert, refers to a Russian rocket developed for almost instant tunneling, using the intense heat of rocket engines. This would speed digging of subsurface transport channels.

Wall Punctured

BULLETIN

An unidentified city fireman was taken to hospital at 2:30 a.m. today suffering from smoke inhalation. He was overcome fighting a stubborn blaze which partly gutted the back shop of Victoria Super Service, Johnson and Blanchard. A Woodward's warehouse also may have been affected.

Sailboat Flips Man Drowns

The son of an associate editor of The Daily Colonist drowned at Parksville yesterday while trying to swim ashore from a capsized sailboat.

Dead is Richard Young, 22, of 383 Sunset, father of two small children and son of Colonist financial editor Harry W. Young.

A companion, Gordon Knox, about 24, also of Victoria, survived the ordeal by clinging to the overturned craft until rescued by Walter Gwyer, operator of the French Creek boat basin.

SHOCK, EXPOSURE

Knox was treated by a doctor for shock and exposure. Families of both men were holidaying at a cabin at Northwest Bay owned by the Young family.

The men left Northwest Bay in a 20-foot sailboat owned by Young's father. The boat capsized about 1 1/2 miles offshore from Parksville during the afternoon.

WEARING RAINCOAT

Both men held on to the hull for about one hour before Young tried to swim ashore. He was wearing all his clothing and a raincoat in addition to a lifejacket, said RCMP.

Waves were heavy and whitecaps were breaking on the water.

Shortly after Knox was plucked from the water by Gwyer, the crew of the tugboat Gypsy II recovered Young's body floating in the water and tried in vain to revive him by artificial respiration.

TOOK IN TOW

A department of transport vessel, the Sir James Douglas, took the sailboat in tow.

Knox returned to the cabin at Northwest Bay where he was attended by a physician.

RECENT PROMOTION

Young was employed by the T. Eaton Co. in Victoria. He was promoted recently.

"He was a very promising young man in our company. We'll certainly miss him," said a spokesman for the firm.

Surviving are the widow, Linda; two small children; the parents and three brothers.

FLEMING MOVING?

Boom Over Nevada?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. said Tuesday it is considering triggering a few low-yield nuclear devices in the air over its Nevada testing grounds.

If a go-ahead is given, first blast will come July 6 and all precautions would be taken to hold radiation to safe levels.

The tests would be part of a program designed to test the peaceful use of nuclear explosives.

The U.S. also will make a new try at a high altitude blast in the Pacific after two failures.

Britain Holds Power

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Macmillan said in a major defence policy debate in Parliament Tuesday that Britain will continue to maintain its independent nuclear deterrent.

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell asked: "Is the British government free to use its nuclear weapons as it thinks, without consultation with or agreement with the United States?"

Macmillan replied: "The British government is free because the forces are located here. The American government is not free in respect to forces located here."

NEITHER WOULD

"Then there is, as a matter of practice, an understanding with which I had with (former) President Eisenhower and have now with President Kennedy that neither of us, in any part of the world, would think of using power of this kind without consultation with each other."

"But that does not take away the independent right of both the Americans and the British."

OTTAWA (CP)—Speculation developed Tuesday that former Ontario premier Leslie Frost might figure in Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cabinet reorganization.

The Frost report was only one of many as the familiar atmosphere of political speculation and rumor once more gripped Ottawa after a hiatus during the eight-week election campaign and last week's intensive planning for the government's austerity program.

His name was linked in some speculation with the federal finance portfolio, now held by Hon. Donald Fleming, on the one vacancy is good for a dozen grounds he is a former Ontario or more names.

pragmatic treasurer and commands the respect of business and financial circles.

There was a good deal of speculation on whether Mr. Fleming might be shifted from the finance ministry, which he has held since 1957.

Surprisingly little speculation has developed on the five pending vacancies. Usually, even Hon. Donald Fleming, on the one vacancy is good for a dozen grounds he is a former Ontario or more names.

Crisis Not New

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's foreign exchange situation reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago, Liberal Leader Pearson said Tuesday as he reiterated his demand that Parliament meet before the end of July to deal with the problem.

The opposition leader thus directly contradicted Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

A short while before Mr. Pearson issued his statement, Mr. Diefenbaker had reiterated to reporters that the emergency arose "in recent days."

In order to merit the co-operation of all Canadians, the Liberal leader said, it is the government's duty "to put all the facts fully and frankly before the people."

"This has not yet been done."

Referring to the prime minister's statement that the exchange situation became threatening only in recent days, Mr. Pearson said:

"In fact the present emergency began to develop early in the year. It first reached crisis proportions eight weeks ago" when devaluation of the Canadian dollar to 92.5 U.S. cents "became unavoidable."

Mr. Pearson said every Canadian will support whatever measures

Nation to Help

REGINA (CP) — T. C. Douglas, national leader of the New Democratic Party, said Tuesday he is sure the nation will co-operate with the federal government's new financial measures.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas said the measures demonstrate the need for a speedy convening of Parliament.

work together on this despite their political persuasions," he said in a telephone interview from his summer home at Carleton Place.

Earlier, Mr. Douglas said the measures demonstrate the need for a speedy convening of Parliament.

No Sacred Split

OTTAWA (CP) — Real Caution, deputy national leader of the Social Credit party, Tuesday night denied suggestions that he and his national leader, Robert Thompson, are at odds in some of their public statements.

He said any impression that he and Mr. Thompson are at variance in their public statements "is entirely wrong."

"There is only one Social Credit philosophy — and we do not have different versions."

Senator Named

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet, holding its time while emergency financial measures take effect, met Tuesday for what information described as a routine business meeting. It probably will meet again today.

The Liberal party's 99 newly-elected MPs were to gather here today for what was described as "a briefing session and exchange of views."

The Social Credit party, which elected 30 members June 18, was to have a caucus of its 26 Quebec MPs in Quebec City today.

The New Democratic Party will get in the swim with a caucus in Winnipeg July 12 of its 19 members.

There appeared to be no plans in the wind for an early meeting of the 116 Conservatives elected to the 353-seat Commons.

In other replies to reporters' questions, the prime minister said:

1. David Golden, deputy minister of defence production who is retiring July 1 to become president of the Air Industries Association of Canada, will continue as president of the North-Ontario Pipeline Crown Corporation.

2. Civil servants, promised further consideration immediately after the election and before the end of this month on wage increases retroactive to last October, "will just have to wait."

3. Campbell Haig, son of John T. Haig of Winnipeg who retired from the Senate in January at the age of 94 because of ill health, has been appointed to the upper house to take his father's seat.

4. There have been no new developments in the federal government's negotiations with British Columbia on development of the Columbia River.

Regier Gets Green Light To Give Douglas Seat

Poisonous Seeds Start New Summer Attack

Three local cases of laburnum seed poisoning have prompted hospital officials to warn parents to keep a close watch on their children.

The three, all youngsters under 10 years of age who had eaten seeds from laburnum trees, were successfully treated at the poison control centre of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

So far no laburnum victims have been treated at St. Joseph's Hospital but emergency staff is waiting for the usual summer onslaught.

Royal Jubilee handles 20 or more cases of laburnum poisoning each year, most during the summer.

To avoid danger laburnum victims should be treated within a half hour of swallowing the poisonous seed, although successful treatment has been administered an hour after the seed was eaten.

Symptoms of poisoning are a burning of the mouth and stomach, nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, delirium, and in serious cases, unconsciousness.
